MANY RUMORS AFLOAT

Of Another Expedition in Aid of the Cuban Cause.

Suspicious Movements off the Coast of Florida Indicate It.

Thought That the Steamer Dauntless is Taking Arms There.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 15. A special from Tampa says:

A vessel supposed to be the Dauntless came into Hillsborough bay last night and took on a cargo of arms and ammunition from a schooner lying at anchor off the mouth of the Alafia river and then sailed away.

Rumors of Filibustering.

Key West, Fla., June 15. A strange tugboat passing rapidly through the harbor this morning created excitement, as it was thought at first to be the filibustering tug Dauntless, but it was found to be an unknown tug.

A report is current that another filibustering expedition is on foot to be carried by the Dauntless.

The schooner Ellen M. Adams, which left yesterday for Bonacca, took on board some strange looking cases from the steamer Biscay, and it is presumed they contained arms and that she will meet the Dauntless at Tortugas and transfer them to her.

The whereabouts of the Dauntless are unknown here.

RAINS HAVE BAD EFFECT.

Sweet Corn Crop Will Be Limited—Good Outlook for Hay and Apples.

Farmington, Me., June 15. The constant rains of the last seven weeks in this section of the state are seriously interfering with planting, especially of sweet corn, vast quantities of which are raised in this section. The many canning factories depend entirely on the corn crop and its heavy failure would mean a heavy financial loss, both to the farmers and the people who seek employment putting up the succulent grain. The potato crop, as well, another important agricultural item in central and northern Maine, is equally dubious.

On the other hand the hay crop will be the largest for many years, while the apple crop, although not so large as last year, will be better than the average. D. H. Knowlton, secretary of the Maine Pomological Society, and himself an active fruit grower, tells the Associated Press that the indications all over the State are for an average apple crop. He comments on the prevalence of a full crop of caterpillars in this section and the evident dislike of the farmers to disturb the pest.

AT MYSTIC PARK.

June Meeting Begun on Tuesday—Rain Interfered Somewhat.

Medford, Mass., June 15. The Mystic Park June meeting began this afternoon, and although the races were interrupted for over an hour by rain three events were concluded. The time except that of the second heat in the 2.16 pace was not especially fast, but that time was remarkable from the fact that it was trotted in the rain on a very heavy track. None of the favorites won a race.

Foreigners Banqueted in Boston.

Boston, June 15. The trip of the Pan-American delegates from Lynn to this city was made late in the afternoon, although not before a lunch had been served to the guests at the Oxford Club.

The event this evening was the banquet given by Mayor Quincy to the delegates at the Algonquin Club. About 230 specially invited guests sat around the board. When speechmaking time came, the mayor made a brief, happily worded address of welcome in behalf of the city of Boston.

Congressman Fitzgerald next extended a welcome to the foreigners, not only in behalf of the commonwealth but for both houses of the National Congress.

Speaker Bates of the Massachusetts house of representatives made a forceful address in which he said that all the nations represented at the table were bound together in the destinies of the new world.

Grateful responses were made in behalf of the visitors by Delegates Graca, of Brazil; Delfino, of Venezuela, and other prominent members of the party.

Maine Sons of Veterans.

Waterville, Me., June 15. The annual encampment of the Maine Sons of Veterans will begin tomorrow and already there are 25 delegates here, while Department Commander L. L. Cooper, of Augusta, with his staff arrived this afternoon. Commander Cooper established his headquarters at the Elmwood Hotel and plans for the meeting were formulated. This evening the delegates attended a regular meeting of Garfield Camp, No. 1 of this city, where three degrees were worked on six candidates. A very busy session is anticipated tomorrow.

Too Much Debs.

Chicago, June 15. Eugene V. Debs today addressed a large audience at Handel's Hall on the objects of the proposed American Co-operative Brotherhood. Debs was introduced amid much applause and read from proof sheets of a forthcoming pamphlet his outline of an "escape from the present industrial slavery."

He warned his hearers that the plan to be outlined in a day or two would involve hard work and courage of the highest order.

Prof. Frank Parsons, of Boston, also spoke. Prominent among those on the platform were Miss Lucy Parsons.

Convict Escaped.

Concord, Mass., June 15. Frank Younger, an inmate of the Concord reformatory, made his escape this afternoon. He made a break while working near the creek and jumping in swam across and escaped to the woods.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at Ara Warren's Drug Store.

HAWAIIAN TREATY.

It Was Not Presented to the Senate on Tuesday.

It Will Not Interfere With the Progress of the Tariff Bill There.

People Will Have Opportunity to Express Sentiments on Annexation.

Washington, June 15. It was the expectation that the Hawaiian treaty this afternoon would receive the formal signatures of the negotiators, Secretary Sherman, for the United States government, and either Minister Hatch or Mr. Lorin Thurston as special commissioner for the Hawaiian government.

The document itself has been prepared and everything was in readiness when it was taken again to the White House for the President's final inspection and review.

Secretary Sherman remained at the department later than is his custom in order to receive the Hawaiians, but finally at 4 o'clock the attempt to secure the signature of the treaty was abandoned.

This may prevent the submission of the treaty to the Senate tomorrow, as was the intention of the cabinet, but the delay in any case will not be material.

At the cabinet meeting in the course of the discussion of the treaty it was decided that its pendency in the Senate would not necessarily cause any considerable obstruction to the tariff bill and while there is every disposition on the part of the President to avoid any interference with the rights of the Senate in the matter it can be stated that the treaty will not go in with any idea that it is not the wish of the executive that it should be acted on promptly.

While the treaty is in the Senate, either in the hands of the Committee on Foreign Relations, or on the calendar of executive business, it is the expectation that the people of the United States will have an opportunity through the press and other mediums to declare their sentiments upon the matter, and if, as is expected, there is an overwhelming declaration for annexation, it is believed that the Senate will be quick to respond to the demand.

In this case the treaty, it is believed, can be taken up and ratified in the course of one or two executive sessions, while the regular tariff debates are in progress daily.

STEAMER JOHN ENGLIS.

New Craft Arrived at Portland on Tuesday.

Portland, Me., June 15. The new and magnificent steel steamer John Englis, of the Maine Steamship Line, arrived at her wharf at 5.45 this afternoon on her first regular trip and had on board a notable party. She left New York at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and would have reached here at noon had not a dense fog, which set in at 2 o'clock this morning, forced her to anchor off Nantucket Shoals.

The Englis, of 3,500 tons burden, was built by the Delaware Shipbuilding Co. for a 16-knot boat, but she made 17 knots after leaving Hell Gate until she was forced by the thick weather to slow down. She is 312 feet in length, 46 feet beam, and has 312 state rooms and 72 berths. These will accommodate 350 passengers. The boat is provided with all the latest improvements in marine architecture.

The officers on board included President C. M. Bailey, Director John Englis, Gen. Freight Agent Capt. Horatio Hall.

The guests were: C. B. Granger, of New York; Joseph R. Hixon, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R.; E. P. Loomis, of New York; Wm. Mange, of the Queen & Crescent; J. Bolles Smith, of the Central Transfer Co.; Mr. Hart and Mr. Groyon, of Chicago; Mr. Ingarity and Mr. Van Laen, of New York; G. L. Thomas, of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; F. C. Salter, of the Northern Pacific; A. L. Salt, of the Western Electric Co.; D. D. Wood, S. E. Perry and A. H. Wilson, of Marshall Field & Co.; J. F. Underwood, of Brooklyn; W. B. Stevenson, of W. J. Sloan & Co.; F. S. Smith, of New York; R. C. McElroy, Thos. J. Riley, of the Brooklyn Terminal Railway, and others.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Tillman Proposes Tax on Immigrants and Advances Another Idea.

Washington, June 15. Senator Tillman today gave notice of an amendment he will offer to the tariff bill providing for a head tax of $100 on all immigrants to the United States.

The amendment also makes it a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment for any person to enter the United States for the purpose of engaging in trade or manual labor without intending to become a citizen. These provisions are modified by a proviso to the effect that they "shall only remain effect until silver shall be admitted to our mints for coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1, on the same conditions with gold."

Barges Ran Ashore.

Boston, June 15. While the ocean tug Gladiator, Capt. Kelly, was bound in through the narrows this morning, having in tow the coal laden barges P. J. Carleton and Chalmette, from Norfolk, the barges took a shear and ran ashore on the Spit, near Bug light, where they remain hard and fast. The tug Gladiator left them in search of assistance and the services of other tugs were got to pull the barges into deep water. The P. J. Carleton and Woodside are owned by Geo. M. Winslow & Co., of this city, and are both laden with cargoes of bituminous coal, consigned to that firm.

The barges had been resting easily and they sustained no apparent damage.

The A. O. U. W.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 15. The supreme lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen reached final adjournment this afternoon. After a lively fight, Asbury Park, N. J., was selected as the next meeting place.

Our New Minister Accepted.

Washington, June 15. A cablegram received at the State Department from the United States Charge at Constantinople this afternoon states that the Sultan has issued an irade announcing the acceptance of Dr. Angell as minister from the United States, and Mr. Terrell has accordingly started for home.

The action of the Porte was very welcome at the State Department and the news will be communicated at once to Dr. Angell at his home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Early in the day Moustapha Bey, the Turkish minister, came to the State Department. He had just returned from New York and announced with some disappointment that he had failed to receive any word from his government respecting the acceptance of Dr. Angell and it was feared that the matter was being treated by the slow process of the mails. However, the later news coming to the department shows that the way is clear for Dr. Angell's reception.

THUNDER STORMS.

GREAT STRIDE

Made by the Senate in Its Work on the Tariff.

Completed Consideration of the Troublesome Sugar Schedule.

Now a Better Prospect for Progress on the Bill as a Whole.

After the Test Votes Other Paragraphs Were Passed Easily.

Washington, June 15. The Senate made a great stride forward today by completing the consideration of the sugar schedule except the provision relating to Hawaii, which went over.

This schedule has been the storm centre of the entire bill and with it disposed of there is better prospect for speedy action on the bill as a whole. The first paragraph of the sugar schedule has served to bring out all the speeches and the test votes and when this was passed early today the other paragraphs of the schedule were agreed to without further opposition.

As agreed to, the schedule places on sugar not above No. 16, Dutch standard, one cent per pound and .03 of a cent for every degree above 75; and on sugars above No. 16 Dutch standard, 1.95c per pound. The other provisions of the schedule relate to maple sugar, maple syrup, candy, etc.

Only one nay and yea vote was taken during the day, on the amendment of Mr. Lindsay (Ky.) to make the rate 1.8 cent per per pound on sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard. The amendment was defeated 32–35.

Senate in Detail.

Washington, June 15. In the course of the chaplain's opening prayer to the Senate today he invoked "open the doors of well requited toil to the unemployed and bring the long expected prosperity to every household."

Mr. Caffery (La.) with a tinge of humor, presented a petition from the Sugar Planters' Association of Louisiana, "protesting against Mr. Caffery's statement that the Wilson bill gives enough protection."

The consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill was then resumed, the pending question being on Mr. Lindsay's amendment to paragraph 200 to strike out 1.95 cents and substitute 1.8 cents per pound on sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard. Defeated, 32 to 35.

When the amendment was taken up Mr. Caffery (La.) referred to Mr. Lindsay's statement yesterday that the figures furnished by Secretary Carlisle as to the amount of raw sugar required to make 100 pounds of refined sugar came from the officers of the sugar trust. Such a statement, coming from the Kentucky Senator, was worthy of full consideration, said Mr. Caffery, as it overthrew the entire calculations on which Republicans were relying. Mr. Caffery read a statement showing that the labor cost in the United States was less than in Germany and other countries and that the cost of refining was less than 30 cents a hundred pounds. Mr. Caffery said this was a grave question for the people, and the Senate should not add to the favors received by an overgrown corporation.

The vote was then taken on Mr. Lindsay's amendment and it was disagreed to, yeas 32; nays 35.

Mr. Allison moved to strike out the retaliatory clause of paragraph 200 from lines 3 to 13, page 63, because, he said, it was covered in the third section of the schedule.

In this connection Mr. Vest (Mo.) criticized Mr. Allison's figures, given yesterday as to the differentials, saying that they were a complete abandonment of the position originally taken by Mr. Aldrich.

Mr. White (Cal.) also criticized Mr. Allison's figures, saying they were incorrect throughout.

He quoted Mr. Hale's statement four years ago as to the poor man's breakfast table, adding, sarcastically, that the same breakfast table was to be turned over to the modern autocrat—the sugar trust. Mr. Aldrich was also quoted, amid amusement, that the Democratic Senators were so hopelessly under the influence of the sugar trust that the American people were humiliated.

Mr. Tillman (S. C.) remarked that he thought this showing justified his word "villainy," for which he had been chided, in referring to the sugar rates.

Mr. Allison's motion striking out the retaliatory clause in paragraph 200 was then agreed to without opposition.

At Mr. Allison's request the proviso relating to the Hawaiian islands was passed over.

This completed the consideration of paragraph 200, except the Hawaiian proviso.

Mr. Allison moved to insert a new paragraph, to be known as paragraph 200½, of which he had given notice. It is as follows:

"200½. That the duties on molasses, clayed, jaggery and other sugars testing not above 87 degrees by the polariscope shall be one-tenth of 1 cent per pound less than those imposed by the preceding paragraph on corresponding tests of sugar."

The paragraph was agreed to without objection.

Paragraph 207 relating to maple sugar and maple syrup was agreed to as reported; also paragraph 208, relating to saccharine.

The committee amendments to paragraph 209 relating to sugar candy and confectionery were agreed to as reported.

This brought the Senate to the end of the sugar schedule, the Hawaiian provision being the only committee provision to go over. Mr. Pettigrew desired to have his amendment relative to trusts voted on as a part of the sugar schedule. Mr. Allison asked that it go over and be considered at a later stage of the bill.

Mr. Pettigrew said he felt like having the issue now unless overruled by the Senate. Mr. Vest remarked that he had not supposed there was any difference among parties on the propriety of this amendment. It was time to dispose of it now, otherwise the whole sugar debate would be re-opened at a later stage. The amendment was then read with a view to a vote. It covers three printed pages and in brief provides: "That all articles on the dutiable list mentioned in this act shall be admitted free of duty if said article or articles of a like character of domestic production are manufactured or their sale controlled or the price affected by a trust or commission to increase the cost of said articles to purchasers by preventing competition or otherwise."

Mr. Pettigrew said that this anti-trust policy had been a plank of the Republican party up to the time of the St. Louis convention, when it was left out of the platform. Whether it was purposely left out in behalf of the trusts would be disclosed by the vote today, he said. An opportunity was now at hand by this amendment to check the rule of the trust and to force it to dissolution.

Mr. Hoar (Mass.) said he expected to do everything in his power to check the evil complained of. But it had no place in a tariff bill, he said, and should be dealt with as a separate measure. He trusted such a measure would be devised.

Mr. Hoar said he specifically objected to that feature of the amendment which permitted three or more men to form a combination and thus force the articles handled by them on the free list. Three men in Chicago might, he said, form a combination which would wreck 10,000 woolen industries of the entire country. He believed, he said, that the effect of the amendment was to place the entire protective system at the mercy of three or four men who might combine, and thus effect an entire industry.

Mr. Faulkner (W. Va.) insisted that the amendment would not bear such construction and that the dangers pointed out by Mr. Hoar could not arise under this amendment.

Mr. Hoar insisted that the amendment was an "abomination" through and through. There was never a scheme conceived in the wildest imagination so couched in terms like this, placing the commerce of the whole country at the mercy of any three unprincipled adventurers.

Mr. Pettus (Dem., Ala.) said he begged his Democratic associates to "go slow" on this kind of an amendment, leading by ill-advised action to the downfall of all classes of commerce and manufactures. It was patterned, he said, after the Canadian law, but was wholly unsuited to our institutions. He sympathized with the idea of the amendment, for we had become a government by the trusts, and by money, and the government's heel should be put on the neck of the system. But in striking at trusts the mistake should not be made of destroying the entire manufacturing business of the country by throwing it into the courts.

Mr. Pettus said this tariff bill was another evidence of the power of wealth which was fast driving the country to the commune. He was not for communism, but he warned Senators that they were plunging along a road leading to the commune.

Mr. Caffery spoke for the amendment. Mr. Lindsay ironically pointed out that it would be serious by this amendment to kill the sugar trust after the bill took such care in the sugar schedule to foster the trust.

Mr. Allison again urged that the amendment ought to go over for the time being and he appealed to Mr. Pettigrew to allow this to be done.

Mr. Pettigrew answered the objections made to his amendment. He said the objections were in the nature of excuses and the weakest of these has come from the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Hoar). He maintained that every objection could be met and that he was willing to so amend his proposition as to make it an effectual remedy against trusts. He was willing to let the amendment go over until tomorrow, when he hoped it would be passed on, as he asserted that the people would not allow Senators to crawl out of the matter.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Pettigrew referred to the rise in sugar stock during recent days, whereupon Mr. Gear (Rep., Iowa) said the sugar debate of three years ago sent up sugar stock forty points.

"I think," exclaimed Mr. Pettigrew, "that the two debates on sugar—now and three years ago—justify the existence of a new political party."

Mr. Morgan (Ala.) pointed out what he regarded as fatal defects of the amendment. He regarded the existing Sherman anti-trust act re-enforced by the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States as the real remedy against trusts.

Mr. Allison moved to lay the Pettigrew amendment on the table.

This speedily developed something of a breeze. Mr. Chilton (Texas) moved an amendment perfecting the procedure under the Pettigrew amendment.

Mr. Allison had remained standing, claiming the floor.

Mr. Chilton yielded the floor to Mr. Faulkner, who declared that the purpose of Mr. Allison's motion to table was to avoid a direct vote on the trust proposition.

Mr. Allison hotly resented this suggestion and claimed the floor. Three Senators were claiming the floor—Allison, Chilton, and Faulkner. The presiding officer, Mr. Gallinger, being temporarily in the chair, held that Mr. Allison was entitled to the floor. Senators asked to perfect the amendment, but Mr. Allison insisted on testing the sense of the Senate on the amendment. A vote was then taken on Mr. Allison's motion to table the amendment and it was agreed to, yeas 35, nays 32. The detailed vote is as follows:

Yeas—Allison, Burrows, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Elkins, Fairbanks, Foraker, Frye, Gear, Hanna, Hawley, Hoar, McBride, McMillin, Mason, Nelson, Penrose, Perkins, Platt, (Conn.) Platt, (N. Y.) Pritchard, Proctor, Quay, Sewell, Shoup, Spooner, Thurston, Warren, Wellington, Wetmore, Wilson, Republicans; Jones (Nev.), silver Populist, and Morgan and McEnery, Democrats—35.

Nays—Bacon, Berry, Caffery, Chilton, Clay, Cockrell, Faulkner, Gray, Jones (Ark.), Kenney, Lindsay, McLaurin, Mallory, Martin, Mitchell, Murphy, Pasco, Pettus, Rawlins, Roach, Tillman, Turpie, Walthall and White, Democrats; Butler, Harris (Kan.), Heitfeld, Kyle and Turner, Populists, and Pettigrew, silver Republican—32.

Mr. Pettigrew gave notice of another amendment that none of the increased duties of the bill shall apply to any article made by trusts. Pasco and Chilton gave notice of similar amendments.

Mr. Allison asked that the tobacco schedule go over and that the consideration of the agricultural schedule be resumed. This was agreed to and the Senate took up the provisions as to dairy products in the agricultural schedule. On the first paragraph (234) butter and substitutes therefor, six cents per pound, Mr. Jones (Ark.) moved to reduce the rate to 4 cents per pound; disagreed to, 20-34.

At 5 o'clock the bill was laid aside and after a short executive session the Senate adjourned.

AN ATTRACTIVE WOMAN.

If a woman is not attractive, there is something wrong. Any woman can be attractive if she will make the effort. It isn't altogether a question of beauty. It's largely a matter of health. The bloom and glow of health go far toward bringing beauty. A clear skin, bright eyes, red lips and the vivacity which bodily good feeling brings, will make even a homely woman handsome.

Half of the women one meets are semi-invalids. Failure to heed the warnings of outraged nature—failure to give the help needed by the most delicate and sensitive organs—little troubles ignored until they have become dominant—these things bring about the sunken, circled eyes, the hollow cheeks, the pale and sallow skin, the flabby, strengthless flesh, which characterize the appearance of the woman who suffers from "female weakness."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has cured thousands of suffering women. It is a perfected specific for the troubles peculiar to them. It eradicates the disease, stops the dragging, life-sapping drain, and in a perfectly rational, natural way, builds up the wasted strength. It will bring buoyant health. It will put roses into pale faces—solid flesh in sunken places. It does away with the humiliating examinations and "local treatment" so much dreaded by modestly sensitive women. For thirty years, it has been successfully prescribed by Dr. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician to the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1897.

The New York World continues to rave about plutocracy in a way that must make Plutocrat Pulitzer smile. He has fattened immensely on that sort of humbug.

In view of recent events in the Senate it might be well for the New York Reform Club to get up another banquet for Mr. Grover Cleveland to reconsider "present problems."

Senator Tillman is not a great man, but he ought at least to know enough to avoid a discussion with Senator Hoar. He invited a controversy in the Senate Monday and was roundly spanked for his pains. The windy demagogism of Tillman quickly collapsed after receiving one or two sharp thrusts from the Massachusetts Senator.

The Boston Herald admits the drift of sentiment toward protection in the South, but when it comes to a discussion of the probable effects upon the country it declares that the question is one that "calls for more space in its treatment than we have at command, at present." It is rather a difficult subject for our free trade contemporary to handle and it manifests more than usual judgment in dropping it.

Senator Vest is reported to have said to Senator Allison: "You can pass your bill just as fast as you want to. I am sick and disgusted and ready to give up after the exhibition the Democrats have made to-day." We hope the remark is true and that Senator Vest will live up to his declaration. The country has been sick for some time and is not inclined to be patient with anyone who delays the needed remedy.

The Boston Globe is getting light as well as some others. It reads the riot act to the "theorists" in the Senate who "seek to advertise themselves among their constituents" by long winded speeches and says "every speech made by a Jones, Vest, Caffery, Mills and Allen" is "costing the treasury something like $10 000 in revenue, and the business of the country much more." Its conclusion is that "the pressing duty of the Senate at this time is to do less talking and more business." Most of the people are in accord with the Globe on this point.

One of the few remaining Democratic free trade editors rises to inquire if the Republicans hope to distract attention from their "infernal domestic policy" by talking about the annexation of Hawaii. This is rich at a time when the Democrats in Congress are getting on the protection train as rapidly as possible. If the tariff debate continues for any length of time Vest and Jones will be about all that is left of the free trade Democracy. The Republicans are not at all anxious to distract attention from a policy that is gaining new supporters every day.

At a meeting of the Maine Populists the last of the week a somewhat lively discussion is anticipated over the Nashville conference. The question to be determined is whether fusion or the middle-of-the-road policy shall prevail. Prof. Bateman, formerly recognized as one of Senator Butler's champions, has now gone over to Watson who is the leader of the middle-of-the-road men. The Democratic contingent of the Populist party will advocate fusion and then the fun will begin. Bateman's choice for a Presidential candidate in 1900 is Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia, "millionaire, editor, statesman and scholar."

President McKinley administered a merited rebuke to the English representative of Mr. Vanderbilt in North Carolina. Arrangements had been made for the Presidential party to visit the palatial residence of Mr. Vanderbilt, but in the absence of the owner his representative informed the local committee that newspaper men were not included in the invitation. When the matter came to the attention of the President he said that the newspaper men were in a sense his guests on the trip and if they were not included in the invitation to his party he certainly should not enter the Vanderbilt grounds. This firm stand settled the question and the English agent who was ready to "split" upon the press suddenly withdrew his conditions.

Protection and the South.

The Philadelphia Press says: The attitude of a few Southern Democratic Senators on the tariff bill now pending before the Senate is the subject of wide discussion in both Republican and Democratic newspapers. The Republicans naturally welcome this evidence of changing sentiment in the South and many Democrats are disposed to admit that there are reasons why Southern Senators should vote and act in favor of protection. The uncompromising free trade organs can, of course, see no merit and no reason in such a course.

The comment on this matter, however, which is of real significance comes from the South itself. Some Democratic newspapers in that neighborhood condemn the position of their Senators, but there is no bitterness in their criticism. Other newspapers are neutral, and a few commend the decision of the Democratic Senators in supporting a policy which will benefit their States. As a specimen of the fairer comment the following from the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, owned and edited by ex-Senator Walsh may be quoted. In speaking of Senator Bacon's attitude it says: "Tariff for revenue with incidental protection does not seem such a bugaboo to-day among Georgia Democrats as it did a few years ago. Then a man was pilloried for daring to entertain the views which Georgia's Senator now proclaims on the floor of the Senate." This is the situation in a nutshell. It typifies a great advance not only in the understanding of economic questions, but in liberality of political sentiment. Six years ago no Southern Senator would have dared to speak and vote as Senators Bacon and McEnery have. They would have been ostracised politically and socially. But to-day their action is discussed dispassionately in the South, even by those who do not agree with them.

That this change would certainly occur in the South on the revenue question has been evident to every one who is acquainted with the past history of that neighborhood and its industrial possibilities. It has been only a question of time when it would come. The Louisville, Ky., Commercial states the case in the following paragraph:

Since the war the representatives and political teachers of the South have failed to comprehend that a change of conditions has made a change of policy essential. Slavery exists no longer. The Southern States are now as much interested in building up the manufacturing interests as the North. It is not improbable that the manufacture of cotton goods may be transferred from New England to that section, while the immense wealth of coal and iron ore has already made it dominant in dictating the prices of manufactured iron. This revelation of the powers of the South and their possibilities has at last dawned upon her statesmen, as it has inspired the enterprise of her practical men of business, and they have concluded to abandon the policy which, however well adapted for the interest of slave States, is entirely unfit for the changed conditions and progressive demands of the present.

This change of the attitude of the South on the revenue question means more than added strength for protection. It means the disappearance of sectional politics, the end of ballot-box stuffing in Southern elections and an era of prosperity for the whole country such as even its past marvelous progress has never equalled. This is the result which can be confidently anticipated. For thirty years this change has been awaited by the North. It would have come twenty years ago had it not been for the encouragement the Democratic party gave to the solid South. It would have come ten years ago had not the Mugwump free trade crusade found it necessary to pander to Southern passions and prejudices. These twenty years have cost the country untold millions of dollars, the demoralization of public opinion in many Southern communities, and one of the severest business depressions in history. This is the price the nation has paid for sectional politics, and the approaching end to that period cannot be anything but a matter for sincere rejoicing to the whole people.

The Century
IN 1897.
ALL NEW FEATURES.

The Century will continue to be in every respect the leading American magazine, its table of contents including each month the best in literature and art. The present interest in American history makes especially timely A Great Novel of the American Revolution, its leading serial feature for 1897, and the masterpiece of its author, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell. The story, "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker," purports to be the autobiography of its hero, an officer on Washington's staff. Social life in Philadelphia at the time of the Revolution is most interestingly depicted, and the characters include Washington, Franklin, Lafayette, and others well known in history. It is safe to say that the readers of this great romance will obtain from it a clearer idea of the people who were foremost in Revolutionary days, and of the social life of the times, than can be had from any other single source. The work is not only historically accurate, but is a most interesting story of love and war. The first chapters are in the November number. Howard Pyle will illustrate it.

Campaigning With Grant, by General Horace Porter, is the title of a series of articles which has been in preparation for many years. General Porter was an aide on General Grant's staff and a close friend of his chief, and the diary, which he kept through the war is the basis of the present articles, which are striking pen-pictures of campaign life and scenes. They will be fully illustrated. The first one is in the November Century.

A new novel by Marion Crawford, author of "Mr. Isaacs," "Saracinesca," "Casa Braccio," etc., entitled, "A Rose of Yesterday," a story of modern life in Europe, with American characters, begins in November. The first of a series of engravings made by the famous wood-engraver, T. Cole, of the old English masters also is in this issue. New features will be announced from time to time.

Harper's Magazine
IN 1897.

Fiction: The Martian, the new novel by Du Maurier, the eagerly expected successor to "Trilby," begun in October Number, 1896, with illustrations from the author's drawings. A new novel by Frank R. Stockton—developing a Twentieth Century Renaissance—full of humorous situations and characteristically illustrated. A Pair of Patient Lovers, by William Dean Howells. Other striking novelettes by American authors. Short stories by Mark Twain, Thomas Nelson Page, Richard Harding Davis, Owen Wister, John Kendrick Bangs, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Octave Thanet, Mary E. Wilkins, and other popular writers.

Science: Story of the Progress of Science during the Nineteenth Century, a series of papers by Dr. Henry Smith Williams, supplemented by contributions on special subjects by expert scientists. Articles on the relations of curious psychological manifestations to physiology by Dr. Andrew Wilson.

American Features: The Mexico of To-Day a series by Charles F. Lummis, splendidly illustrated—the result of a recent visit to Mexico undertaken for Harper's Magazine. Mexico is pre-eminently a silver-producing country, and its monetary operations rest entirely on a silver basis. Owing to the keen discussion of certain economic problems in connection with issues of urgent importance in American politics, these papers will command general attention. American Historical Papers by Woodrow Wilson, John Bach MacMaster, and James Barnes. The true story of Sheridan's Ride, by Gen. G. A. Forsyth. Continuation of Howells's Personal Reminiscences of eminent literary Americans.

Africa and the East: White Man's Africa, a fully illustrated series of papers by Poultney Bigelow, the result of personal observations during a recent trip to Africa, covering the whole field of European exploitation of that country. Illustrated articles by Stephen Bonsal on the transformations going on in Eastern Siberia, recently visited by the author. Hungarian Sketches, written and drawn by F. Hopkinson Smith. The full story of the recent Coronation of the Czar, by Richard Harding Davis, illustrated by R. Caton Woodville, who was commissioned by Queen Victoria to paint a picture of the ceremony.

ELLIS ISLAND FIRE.

A Loss of $800,000 to the Government.

Hundreds of Immigrants in Danger but All Taken Off Safely.

New York, June 15.—Fire at an early hour this morning destroyed the immigrant landing station that covered almost all of Ellis Island, causing a property loss of about $780,000 to the United States government. All of the government records and the baggage of the immigrants was burned.

Two hundred and fifty immigrants were rescued from the burning structures, and brought safely to this city. Not one of them received a burn. There were 30 patients in the wooden hospital building in the rear of the main structure who were carried out in cots just before the hospital took fire.

The cause of the fire is as yet a mystery. It started in the east end of the main structure, which was more than 1,000 feet long and three stories high. The first floor of the building was almost entirely given up to baggage, while the eastern end of the second story was used for offices. The third story was used as a reviewing gallery.

The middle and southern portions of the first two stories were used for landing bureaus and detention rooms. It was in this part of the building that most of the immigrants were sleeping last night. When chief night watchman Burke, noticed the fire it was licking around one of the towers. He at once summoned the 30 men employed under him who quickly unlocked the iron gates leading to the detention rooms and aroused the sleepers, who were reposing on benches and on wire cots, which the bureau provides.

One of the night watchmen was also sent across the bridge to the woman's dormitory, contained in a two story building in the rear of the landing depot. They were hustled down stairs into the yard in the rear of the landing depot, and then conducted around the west end of the building and soon to the ferry slip, where the ferry boat John M. Carlisle was lying with steam up.

Meantime the men in the main building had been rushed out and down the main double stairway, at the west end, to the boat.

It was seen at a glance that the big main building was doomed, and it required quick work to carry out the helpless sick before the blistering heat prevented an approach to the hospital building. Doctors, nurses and attendants helped in the work.

Once outside the people carrying cots rushed at a quick trot across the grass plat to the pier, never stopping till the patients were landed on the boat. In this way all of the 30 sick people were carried into the large cabin, or the Carlisle's main deck.

Meantime some of the immigrants who had escaped from the building had become anxious about their baggage, and despite the fact that the vast building was fast being encompassed by flames, rushed back to save it. In all the known tongues they insisted that their all was contained in the boxes and bundles which they had brought over. Capt. Burke and his men had to fairly fight them back on the boat. They wept and wrung their hands when they found it was impossible to save their property.

The fire by this time had the entire main building in its embrace and the flames illuminated the whole harbor, lighting up the lower end of New York almost as plainly as day. Jersey City and Brooklyn were thrown into bold relief by the flames. Lighted by this glare, with the paint blistering from her sides, the Carlisle steamed out of the long slip into the upper bay. She had been preceded but a few minutes earlier by the transfer steamers, Emmons, Hazel Kirke, John E. Moore and others, with three of the big immigrant barges.

Every vessel in the harbor could be seen plainly and even from Fort Hamilton and Staten Island the burning was watched and could be plainly seen. The wind was from the westward and this prevented the flames from igniting the smaller buildings in the rear of the main depot.

At 2 o'clock the flames were under control. The big station, the hospital, the laundry, the restaurant, doctor's houses and a number of small outbuildings were in ashes. The engine house was the only building of importance on the island which escaped destruction.

When the ferry boat Carlisle reached the barge office landing in this city this morning, ambulances from Gouverneur and Hudson street hospitals met the boat and the patients from the Ellis Island hospitals were divided between the two institutions.

In an interview this morning, commissioner of immigration, Dr. Senner, said that the loss to the government is about $780,000.

The island today is a mass of black, smouldering ruins. All the huge buildings which since 1892 have housed hundreds and thousands of immigrants, were demolished in a conflagration during the night which constituted one of the most brilliant spectacles ever seen in New York harbor and which threatened the lives of several hundred emigrants who were on the island.

The exact amount of damage has not yet been ascertained but it is said that the loss on buildings will amount to something like $800,000, while hundreds of valuable records have been destroyed.

The first step taken today by the immigration authorities were to ascertain definitely, if possible, whether any of the persons who were on the island last night had been caught in the flames. There were no records left by which the temporary inhabitants could be accounted for, so the immigrants were divided up into groups according to the ships they came in. They were then submitted to close questioning. They were asked whether they missed any of their fellow passengers.

At last everybody seemed satisfied that all their shipmates were safe and sound on land and the authorities came to the conclusion that in some wonderful way the fire which ate up the buildings on Ellis Island as if they were matchwood had been without fatal results.

St. Louis, Mo., June 15.—Fire destroyed the plant of the St. Louis Curled Hair Co. at the foot of Brennan avenue. Loss $50,000.

Coal Fire.

Birmingham, Ala., June 15.—The Henry Ellen coal mines, 15 miles east of here, owned and operated by the Tennessee Coal & Iron Railroad Co., are on fire. The flames gained considerable headway this morning and Superintendent Ormsby has been notified. All the miners are out of the mines. Representatives of the company have gone to Henry Ellen and the flames will be fought till subdued.

TRIAL BEGUN

Of J. S. Shriver, the Newspaper Man Who Refused to Answer Questions.

Washington, June 15.—The trial of John S. Shriver, correspondent of the New York Mail and Express, the fourth of the recusant witnesses before the Senate sugar investigating committee of 1894 began today before Judge Bradley. Of the other three witnesses, similarly charged, Broker Chapman was convicted and has served a sentence in jail and Messrs. Havemeyer and Searles, president and secretary, respectively of the American Sugar Refining Co. were acquitted. Mr. Shriver was represented by Judge A. J. Dittenhoffer of New York and Judge Jerry Wilson of this city.

Mr. Shriver was asked by the Senate committee to give detailed information regarding some despatches sent by him to his paper, in which it was stated that during an alleged conference between officials of the Sugar Trust and certain senators at the Arlington, in March, 1894, there was lodged in the next room a certain wire manufacturer who overheard the alleged conference and the next morning reported it to a certain congressman telling him that from the conference he knew the Wilson bill never would pass and that the sugar schedule of the House bill would be changed.

Mr. Shriver refused to divulge the names of any of the persons concerned in his story when he was called before the Senate committee on the ground that he pledged himself to secrecy in that particular.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Reported Suicide of Barney Barnato Confirmed.

Expression of Opinion of English Press on Hawaiian Annexation.

London, June 15.—The officials of the Union Steamship Co., to which the steamer Scot belongs, confirm the announcement made last night in a [illegible] despatch from Funchal, Island of Madeira, that Barney Barnato, the South African "Diamond King," committed suicide by jumping overboard while the vessel was on her way from Cape Town which port she left on June 2 for Southampton via Funchal.

The death of Barney Barnato caused a sensation in financial circles. His office was besieged this morning by hundreds of eager inquirers [illegible] his firm had not received [illegible] tion of the news.

His self destruction [illegible] posed to have been the outcome of [illegible] recent illness at the Cape [illegible] cording to rumors on the stock exchange [illegible] was in the nature of brain [illegible]

The African market, as a result of the death of Barnato, was depressed. Barnato Consolidated was [illegible] Johannesburg Investment [illegible] Chartered Company's [illegible] De Beers [illegible] Rand mines were ⅜ lower.

Although the stock exchange was affected by the news of Barnato's [illegible] there was no panic. The Barnato [illegible] were not allowed [illegible] they found buyers.

The opinion is expressed that the death of the great South African speculator cannot have much effect upon the [illegible] as Barnato recently has paid [illegible] attention to business.

Details of the Suicide.

Funchal, Island of Madeira [illegible]—The following details have been [illegible] of the suicide of Barney Barnato while on the passage from Cape Town on board the Union Steamship Co's steamer Scot which left Cape Town on June 2 for Southampton [illegible] port.

Barnato, who has been [illegible] for some months past, seemed [illegible] prove after leaving Cape Town [illegible] was never alone and some one [illegible] constantly with him as it was feared he would do himself some injury [illegible] day, after lunch, between 2 and 3 [illegible] In the afternoon he seemed to be in good spirits and was walking [illegible] down the deck on a passenger [illegible] Suddenly Barnato asked his companion to tell him the time but [illegible] ceived a reply he wrenched his [illegible] and jumped overboard.

The fourth officer jumped [illegible] after him immediately, but [illegible] save the life of the South African [illegible] nator, as heavy seas were running [illegible] the Scot was steaming at the rate of 17 knots an hour. As soon as possible the steamer was stopped, a life boat was lowered and pulled to the spot where [illegible] was last seen. The fourth officer was rescued in an exhausted condition [illegible] later the body of Barnato was [illegible] floating head downwards. [illegible] have been embalmed and will be [illegible] to England on board the Scot.

Mrs. Barnato and her children [illegible] also on board the Scot. [illegible] lived in Spencer House [illegible] and were intending to occupy [illegible] gorgeous house just being finished [illegible] Park Lane opposite Stanhope Gate [illegible] deceased speculator leaves [illegible] Leah Primrose [illegible] Rosebery.

Views on Annexation.

London, June 15.—All the morning newspapers discuss the Hawaiian question in the light of the proposed annexation of the Islands to the United States. The Globe says: "The question is essentially international and cannot be disposed of by the decree of [illegible] alone. Great Britain and France [illegible] the same positions towards Hawaii [illegible] the United States. If the island is converted into a strong naval station will practically command the [illegible] route between Vancouver, Australia [illegible] the far east and Great Britain has [illegible] right to be consulted before the [illegible] carried farther. Lord Salisbury's [illegible] sent should not be given unless [illegible] pro quo is given for tearing up the [illegible] ent treaty."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: [illegible] seems probable that Hawaii will be under the stars and stripes shortly and [illegible] body here will say a word against [illegible] should be glad to see Hawaii [illegible] than any other [illegible]

The Westminster Gazette says: "Great Britain will not object to the annexation of Hawaii though it remains to be seen how Japan will take annexation."

Proposition Defeated.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 15.—The [illegible] petition put forward by the states of New York, Oregon and California for the relief of the aged and needy members of the A. O. U. W. by the local lodges before the death of the members, the [illegible] to be repaid from the benefit money [illegible] it became due, has been defeated [illegible] session of the Supreme Lodge.

A new law was adopted providing that in the future all decisions of the grand masters of the jurisdictions in which some law of the supreme lodge [illegible] pretest must be reviewed by the supreme lodge. This law was adopted for the purpose of securing a more uniform application of the laws of the order in the different sections of the country, as the grand masters have begun in the [illegible] making conflicting interpretations [illegible] supreme laws.

The supreme lodge did not adjourn [illegible] was expected, and the indications are that it will be in session until Wednesday.

Grazed by a Train.

John L. Pierce, who lives on the river road at Augusta had the closest kind of an escape from being killed, or [illegible] being struck by a passing freight [illegible] Monday about 12.45 p. m. at the Pines Hill crossing. He and freight No. [illegible] came very nearly being mixed up together in a way that would have made things bad for Pierce.

He, to all appearances, literally tried to drive his horse, or colt, into the passing train. It was not his fault that he was not successful. After driving through Grove street he went down Pines Hill at a rapid rate. The gate had been properly lowered. Pierce drove his horse against the gate. The animal stopped there, thoroughly frightened. People passing were astonished to see Pierce lash his horse, which frantic enough, reared up and came heavily down on the gate, breaking it. Then the horse, still being lashed by the driver, shied toward the Augusta Beef Co's building to avoid the cars.

Finally he got close to the building so close that his nose rubbed against the glass windows, while the hubs of the wheels were being scraped by the passing train, the opposite wheels being on the building's steps. It was there that Pierce was rescued from his dangerous position. People who were part way up the hill actually turned away to avoid seeing Pierce and the horse killed.

All this took some seconds and the long train finally passed. Pierce again commenced to lash the horse, but bystanders interfered, an officer was called and Pierce was arrested for being drunk and taken away from the reach of the horse lest he or some of his property be destroyed. It was an escape that only those who saw it can fully appreciate.

Yes, he knew what he wanted and it was no use to tell him that he wanted what he didn't want. He had been patronizing a barber shop in Waterville where the help made a practice of telling a man every time he took a chair that he wanted a hair-cut, a sea foam or a shampoo, and he had got sick of it. He thought he would try a new shop just for luck. The other day he wanted to be shaved. He knew his hair was not long and that his scalp was all right. When he entered the shop he looked over the men and asked: "Can I get shaved here?" "Yes, sir, sit right down," was the reply from the proprietor of the shop and down he sat. Turning to the man who was about to begin operations, he said: "Now, look here, I want it distinctly understood that I am here after a shave and nothing else. I don't want a seafoam, a shampoo, or a hair cut. I simply want you to shave me, and make no inquiries about my desires one way or the other. I will discuss the weather, the war in Candia, the city building or politics and will try to entertain you or let you try to entertain yourself with me. Furthermore I have only ten cents with me anyway. Are you ready? One, two, three, go." It was hours before the crew of that shop recovered from the shock and then they didn't realize what had hit them.

The widow appeals to the sympathy of even the most callous-hearted. Here is a woman still in the springtime of life, deprived of the stay and support upon which she had every right to depend, and her future overshadowed by the loss of the one man in all the world upon whom she had centered her love and affection. A man has no right to sacrifice his life in the mad race for money, by neglecting his bodily health. A man owes it to himself and to his wife and children to live a long and helpful life. If a man would live he must keep health.

Health is a matter of a little patch here and there. Look after the little ailments and the big ailments will take care of themselves. They will never come. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery keeps the body in perfect health. It promptly eradicates the little ailments that bring serious illness, or if the serious malady has already arrived it promptly cures it by removing the cause. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and makes the appetite keen and hearty. It makes the assimilation of food perfect and supplies the blood with the life-giving elements that build new and healthy tissues and firm muscles. It tones and builds up the nerves. It drives impurities and disease germs from every organ of the body. It cures all diseases due to overwork, and worry and faulty nutrition. It is an unfailing remedy for weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, severe cough, bronchitis, asthma and kindred affections. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption.

Mr. Isaac E. Downs, of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y., writes: "For three years I had suffered with that terrible disease, consumption, and heart disease. Before taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I had wasted away to a skeleton; could not sleep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. Step by step, the signs of returning health slowly but surely developed themselves while taking the 'Discovery.' To-day I tip the scales at 187, and am hearty and strong. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has also cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh."

BREWER LOCALS.

A new fence is being built on Main street, at Oak Hill, between the trestle of the electric railway and the street.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Sarah Low Hunter will be held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from her late residence on Main street.

Mr. Arthur L. Hopkins arrived home on the steamer City of Bangor yesterday from Rockland where he has been spending a few days.

A dance was held at Dole's Hall in South Brewer last evening and was well attended and much enjoyed. Music was furnished by Hall's orchestra.

The spring term of all the city schools except the High school, which ended last week, will be closed for the summer vacation on Friday of this week.

The schooner General Grant is at Bucksport, where quite extensive repairs have been made on her during the past week. She is now being recalked.

Messrs. Guilford and George Low, of Guilford, are in the city to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Sarah L. Hunter. They are the guests of Mrs. J. A. Wallis, on Holyoke street.

The Dirigo hose running team will practice four nights out of a week from now until the Fourth of July in order to be in good shape for the muster at Bath. The nights selected are Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Daniel Colson returned to Castine yesterday after a stay of a few days in the city. He intends shortly to move his family back to Brewer, his daughter, Miss Fannie Colson, having completed her course at the Castine Normal School.

Dr. Frank Nye was taken to the insane hospital at Augusta yesterday by City Marshal Fickett. Dr. Nye has been at the city farm for some time but has caused trouble of late by running away and some slight demonstrations that it has been thought best to again place him in the asylum.

There was a lively runaway on Centre street Tuesday forenoon caused by a horse attached to a delivery cart of H. C. Clapp's getting frightened. The horse ran down the street scattering groceries by the way. In turning the corner at Farrington block the runaway collided with another team, breaking a wheel of the wagon ran into.

The long continued rains and the consequent muddy condition of the roads has prevented any effort thus far this spring to put the speedway on the Ellsworth road that was so popular last season in condition for use but later on it is probable that something will be done by the horsemen for the provision of the same excellent facilities for driving that they enjoyed last year.

MILLER—RAY.

A Happy Wedding Event in Brewer Tuesday Evening.

At the residence of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ray, on Bilmmer street in Brewer, there occurred Tuesday evening a very happy wedding event, the marriage of their daughter, Miss Emma J. Ray, to Rev. W. S. A. Miller, of Hooksett, N. H. The interior of the house had been very prettily decorated for the occasion and presented a most attractive appearance.

At 8 o'clock the bridal party marched into the room where the ceremony was performed to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin played by Miss Nettie Russ. Mr. William I. Bunker was the best man, and Miss Alice Gertrude Ray the bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles N. Sinnett, of Chesterfield, N. H., in the presence of a number of the relatives and friends of the groom and was followed by a reception by the bride and bridegroom, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ray, to the invited guests. Delicious refreshments were served and the occasion was a very happy one.

Both Mr. Miller and his bride are very well known and highly esteemed by hosts of friends who have made them many and valuable wedding gifts and extend their heartiest of congratulations and best wishes for the future. Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on the train last night for their wedding journey to Boston and Salem, Mass., from whence they will proceed to Hooksett, N. H., where they will reside.

THE FIRST BALLOON.

How the Wonderful Airship Came to Be Invented.

"The word balloon means "a large ball." To Montgolfier of Annonay, France, the invention of the balloon is credited. It is said that he was led to turn his attention to balloon making from the following incident:

"A French laundress, wishing to dry a petticoat quickly, placed it on a basket work frame over a stove. To prevent the heat from escaping by the opening at the top of the petticoat she drew the plaitings closely together and tied them. Gradually the garment dried and became lighter, and as the stove continued to give out heat and rarefy the air concentrated under the basket work frame, the petticoat began to move, and finally rose in the air.

"This so astonished the laundress that she ran to her neighbors and asked them to come and witness the strange sight. Montgolfier was among those that came in. The petticoat suspended in midair suggested greater things to him, and he returned home with "something to think about."

He at once began studying works on different kinds of atmosphere, and the invention of the balloon was the result.

The first public ascent by the Montgolfier balloon was made June 5, 1783. It was a spherical bag, consisting of pieces of linen buttoned together, suspended from cross poles. A fire was kindled under it, and the flames were fed with bundles of chopped straw. The loose bag filled out, assumed a graceful form, and in a short time was completely distended. At a given signal the stays were slipped, and the balloon instantly ascended. Its velocity accelerated until it reached some height, then became uniform and carried it to an elevation of more than a mile. For ten minutes it remained suspended, then fell gently in a vineyard nearly two miles distant from the place of its ascension.

The first adventurers to make an ascent in a balloon were M. Pilatre de Rozier and the Marquis D'Arlandes. In the basket of a balloon they, on Nov. 21, 1783, rose to a height of about 3,000 feet.—Philadelphia Times.

Workmen as Contractors.

A system of public work that has much to commend it is that of "co-operative contract," in vogue in New Zealand. Under that system a public work is divided into small sections by the engineer in charge, and an estimate is made of its cost. Each section is then let out to a group of workmen, who do the work under a foreman of their own choosing, but who receives no more than his fellows. They obtain the full profit which would otherwise go to professional contractors, and they share the payment equally.

Each worker is interested in seeing that his companions do their full amount of work, and the sooner the job is performed the greater the return for a day's work. If any tools are needed which the men do not own, the government supplies them at a moderate rental. The adoption of this system should provide a method whereby direct employment by the government would be consistent with a full return for the money expended, giving to the community an advantage in the economical execution of public enterprises equal to that enjoyed by private employers.—Review of Reviews.

Two Kinds of Insomnia.

"When Nan was engaged to Jack, she didn't get enough sleep because she had to lie awake and think how much she loved him."

"Well?"

"And now their engagement is broken, and now she doesn't get enough sleep because she has to lie awake to hate him."—Chicago Record.

Within two years three men have committed suicide in Chicago because of unrequited love for a certain pretty girl of that city.

AT BOSTON.

Entertainment of the Pan-Americans Tuesday.

Shown the Sights of the City and Taken to Nahant and Lynn.

Boston, June 15.—The solid men from South America, who want to become members of our commercial family, clasped hands with Boston today. She spoke to them in half a dozen languages, but her loudest word, well understood of all, was "Welcome." Of course the first thing she did with her guests was to show to them her public library. This was done early in the morning so that there could be no possibility of omission. Enroute to the water front other institutions of learning were pointed out, and then the hosts were content to get down to the uninteresting details of whirring engines and whirring belts.

In the safe convoy of the Philadelphia commercial museum's party, on whose invitation the Latin-Americans are making their industrial tour of the land, the men from the tropics reached town early last evening, full of gratitude and other good things for the overwhelming greeting New England gave to them on their entry at Fall River yesterday. Mayor Quincy and a committee of citizens and manufacturers had their welcome waiting at Park Square station, and escorted the visitors to the Vendome. Those who were not too tired, spent the balance of the evening in the boxes of Keith's theatre and saw that industry which is peculiar to the United States by the name of a "variety show."

They were up early this morning sniffing for the east wind, whose fame has penetrated the jungles of the southern continent, but the weather man had ordered up his choicest assortment of sunshine and zephyrs and the day was glorious.

After the public library with its masterpieces of art had been seen and praised, carriages drove the party to the south ferry, where they boarded the steamer Victor for a run to Nahant. A fine view of the harbor was afforded the strangers; Bunker Hill monument was pointed out, and its story told; so too, the Charlestown navy yard—and the United States battleship Massachusetts, lying at anchor in the harbor.

A stop was made for a look over the huge freight steamer Victorian, of the Leyland line. She was loading tobacco and grain for her Liverpool voyage which will begin tomorrow. The Americans went through the ship and ate a light lunch before the run to Nahant was resumed.

That island was reached about 12.30 and the guests were promptly driven along Lynn Beach to Lynn, the hustling little shoe town. There were so many things to be seen that the party was divided into four detachments here, each of which had a visiting list. In all, the shoe factories of Welch & Landregan, Harney Bros., C. W. Porter and D. A. Donovan & Son and J. B. Renton's Heel factory were gone through, the party reuniting at the works of the General Electric Co.

S. C. Hutchinson, of the Lynn Board of Trade, acted as principal escort for his town, and the Boston committee was made up of these representatives of the Boston chamber of commerce, the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association and the National Association of Wool Manufacturers; Henry W. Peabody, chairman; Wallace F. Robinson, president of the chamber of commerce, and Benj. Hinckley, first vice-president; Rufus A. Flanders, of the board of trade; Jonathan A. Lane; James M. W. Hall; Geo. H. Leonard; C. J. Woodbury and Elwyn G. Preston, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Luncheon was served at the Oxford club in Lynn, and the party will return to Boston by the 4.25 train, to make ready for the banquet to be given them by Mayor Quincy at the Algonquin club tonight.

TO ENTRAP A PERFUME.

A Game, Played at Cannes, Which Ought to Interest Lovers of Flowers.

Learn a lesson from the south of France. In the flower season at Cannes plates of glass are thinly covered with clarified, inodorous fat. Upon or under this fat the flowers are placed, and the power this substance has to absorb and retain perfumes is astonishing. On these sheets of glass the most delicate odors are thus fixed almost as securely as on the collodion prepared plates the most delicate pictures are retained.

In this way the jessamine, the violet, the tuberose and orange perfumes travel across France and arrive here as pure as the day they were given forth from the flowers themselves. The emancipation of the odor from its imprisonment is very simple. The fat, cut into small cubes, is placed in spirits of wine, and the delicate essence immediately deserts the coarse fat for the more spiritual solvent.

M. Piesse, in his interesting work on perfumery, says that "while cultivators of gardens spend thousands for the gratification of the eye, they altogether neglect the nose. Why should we not grow flowers for their odors as well as for their colors?" And we may add, the ladies may utilize some of our own waste garden perfumes very easily and with pecuniary advantage to themselves. Heliotrope, the lily of the valley, honeysuckle, myrtle, clove pink and wallflower perfumes, such as we get in the shops, are made up odors, cunningly contrived from other flowers.

Yet they may be made pure with a little trouble. "I want heliotrope pomade," says M. Piesse, in despair. "I would buy any amount that I could get." And the way to get it is very simple. If there is a glue pot in the house and it happens to be clean, fill it with clarified fat, set it near the hothouse fire, or any other fire, just to make the fat liquid, and throw in as many heliotrope flowers as possible, let them remain for 24 hours, strain off the fat, and add fresh ones; repeat this process for a week and the fat will have become a pomade a la heliotrope. The same process may be gone through with with all the other flowers mentioned. A lady may in this manner make her own perfume and we may add, in the words of M. Piesse, "one that she cannot obtain for love or money at the perfumer's."—New York Herald.

The Behavior of the Japanese.

The Japanese are as courteous as they are theatrical and artistic. Their courtesy and their art are very closely allied. Their keen sense of courtesy and their unflagging practice of it has, I believe, as much to do with the quietness and fitness of their funerals as has their fine artistic instinct. They are as a nation even prouder and more studious, I think, of their courtesy than of their artistic excellence. "Cry. It will do you good!" I said once to a poor Japanese woman, who crouching beside her dying husband, was controlling herself with an effort that would, I feared, make her ill. She laid her little, slim, brown finger upon her trembling, red lip and shook her head, then whispered, "It might disturb him!" "Cry. It will do you good!" I said the next day, when the man was dead, and she seemed almost prostrate with grief and overwhelmed self control. "It would be most rude to make a hideous noise before the honored dead," came the soft reply.—New York Ledger.

ALL OVER THE STATE.

People near the corner of Water and Bridge streets, Augusta, at the noon hour Monday, were treated to a startling and unpremeditated acrobatic performance, in which the actors were a white bull dog and a well known Augusta young man. The young man had just crossed the street and was about to climb the stairs leading to Burgess' photograph rooms when the white bull dog, evidently remembering an important engagement at the North end, came tearing down Bridge street and shot around the corner. There was room enough for both if they had seen each other and made their plans accordingly, but each was in a hurry and each was intent on his own business, and the result was a collision. For a second the air was full of young man and white bull dog and then the spectators saw the young man at full length in the mud while the bull dog, with a yelp of astonishment escaping from his jaws, was disappearing up Water street. The young man made some remarks not directly concerning the weather and continued on his way.

Rev. Fr. Harrington, of St. Joseph's church, Lewiston, has been invited to deliver the sermon at the golden jubilee services to be held this month at St. George's church, Saxonville, Mass.

The insurance commissioner, Hon. S. W. Carr, has returned from a fishing trip at Rangeley lakes, where a party, including ex-Governor Cleaves, J. Frank Lang, of Portland, Editor Brackett, of the Phillips Phonograph and Mr. P. H. Winslow, of Gardiner, the treasurer of the Sandy River railroad, were royally entertained by Hon. F. E. Timberlake. "We had a magnificent time," says Mr. Carr. The Governor took the largest fish, an 8 pound landlocked salmon.

Waterville has her full quota of canvassers during each year. Some of them are good, some bad and some of them are indifferent. Two of the bad ones landed there the other day and perhaps it was because their business had been good in other towns and they had some spare cash, that they set about having a good time, painting the city a vermillion hue and making their own ordinances. They were quartered at a respectable boarding house on East Front street, but that did not seem to make much difference with them. Monday morning they got to be too rollicky and the city marshal went down to see what they proposed for the next number on the programme. The result of his visit was the landing of both men in the police station. About this time City Marshal Morse, of Augusta, dropped into town and requested an interview with one of them, who, the officer said, had departed from the Capital city forgetting to return to its owner, a ring belonging to a young lady of that city. Marshal Morse got the ring. The two men were fined $5 and costs each, but decided to take 30 days instead of paying. They were accommodated.

There was a daring hold up on the shore road to Falmouth Foreside Friday night. Mr. Henderson T. Stephenson, a teamster from Portland, was driving out to Capt. Dougherty's house at Falmouth Foreside when he was accosted by two rough-looking men who jumped at him, one from each side, and seized his horse by the head. They commanded him to climb down and deliver. Mr. Stephenson said he was willing to climb down if it would please them, but he had nothing to deliver, as no doubt they were as wealthy as he was. The highwaymen went through him and also looked over his team load, which consisted of a lot of wood ashes and a barrel of flour. They concluded that there was nothing dutiable and let him go. There is no clue to the identity of the men as it was very dark at the time and there was nothing about their voices that suggested any person whom he ever saw before. Mr. Stephenson is of the opinion that the men are some of the Italians working on the Yarmouth road.

City Marshal Call, of Waterville, was in Augusta Monday with three prisoners in his charge. Two of these were for drunkenness and they were sentenced by the Waterville municipal court to 30 days in the Kennebec jail. They gave their names as H. H. Tucker and James Macky. The later was wanted in Augusta by Marshal Morse for having in his possession a ring valued at $33 which was the property of an Augusta girl. Macky claimed that she let him wear her ring and that he had no idea of stealing. However, that may be the ring was returned and this matter was not further pressed. The location of the ring was a clever piece of work. The Augusta young lady gave a description of the man to Marshal Morse. The latter wrote Marshal Call who, on the arrest of Mack, held him for Mr. Morse's identification. The third prisoner was George Lashus, who was bound over to await the September court for forging his grandfather's mark on a pension check of $36.

George Wakefield was arrested Monday at Gardiner by the officers on charge of obtaining goods under false pretences. He got a coat of A. Davenport, having it charged to a relative, and then sold the coat, using the money for himself. He pleaded guilty and the judge gave him 30 days in jail and the costs of court and in default of costs 30 days additional. He went to jail for 60 days.

Sunday forenoon two Sandy Brook youths, Elbridge Grindle and Arthur Burnham, were having an inland canoe trip on the placid waters of the pond above the road. They became careless and tipped the fickle craft upside down. The water is nearly six feet deep, the bottom is muddy and the banks several yards from the center of the pond. It was in this predicament that the young men found themselves and neither being water rats, it looked as though they would have to bid goodbye to all things earthly. Lusty shouts brought aid, however, and everybody within hailing distance assembled to assist them out of their luckless plight. By dint of squirming through the mud, jumping up and then diving down they emerged at last into the arms of their distinguished and rejoicing friends, safe but very wet. The canoe floated down to the road and was righted.

Here is a realistic picture, a "snap shot" of the breaking of a mighty jam of logs at a short bend in Pierce stream: "It was a rough mass of a hundred thousand feet of lumber, great logs crossed and interlocked, some standing straight up. The front of the jam had been worked down by the men and now the head of water was coming from the dam at the pond. We can hear it coming. With a seething, gushing roar it strikes the jam, the up stream end of which is tightly packed, making a comparatively water tight dam. The mass groans, creaks, quivers, then a resounding crash—the key log somewhere in the snarl of lumber has broken and now it all goes rushing and crashing down the stream. The rear end could not stop to go around the bend but was pushed high and dry over the point of ledge. Logs sixty feet long are forced end over end. Well may the men stand back and cheer on such mighty work. The jam passed in five minutes but for some time could be heard the thunder of the logs as they rushed over the rocks and falls to the stream below."

CRYING ORDEALS FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Women May Avoid Painful Examinations.

To a modest, sensitive, high-strung young woman, especially an unmarried woman, there is no more trying or painful ordeal than the "examinations," which are now so common in hospitals and private practice.

An examination by speculum, or otherwise, is sometimes a positive necessity in certain stages of many diseases peculiar to women, so at least it is declared by the profession. This would not be the case if patients heeded their symptoms in time.

If a young girl's blood is watery, her skin pale and waxy looking, her lips colorless, bowels torpid, digestion poor, her ears and temples throb and she is subject to headache, begin at once to build up her system with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Do not allow her to undergo a physical examination.

Here is a letter from a young lady who requests that her name should not be used, but gives her initials and street number so that any inquiry addressed to her will be received. She says:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of your Vegetable Compound. I was tempted to try it after seeing the effects of it upon my mother, and now I feel like a new person. I am a stenographer and was troubled with falling of the womb and female weakness in general. I continued to work until I was so weak I could no longer walk, and the last day I was forced to stop and rest.

"I was then so ill that I was compelled to stay in bed, and so nervous that I could not hold anything in my hands. The least noise or surprise would cause my heart to beat so loudly, and I would become so weak that I could hardly stand. I suffered for almost a year. It is different now. I can go about my work with pleasure, while before, work was a drudge.

"Trusting that my words of praise may help some other afflicted person, and be of benefit to womankind in general, I remain, Yours in gratitude, L. H., 444 S. East St., Indianapolis, Ind."

A family arrived in Gardiner recently from over in Androscoggin county with their household goods, and on arrival here the man didn't have the necessary funds to pay the freight on his goods. It is needless to add that the Gardiner overseers of the poor are not paying the freight on Androscoggin's paupers.

The passengers on a Deering street car a few nights ago remarked to each other that a tall man standing out on the platform had a very bad cold. He sneezed on an average about once in every two minutes. It grew to be painfully monotonous, and after each nasal convulsion the poor man would look apologetically at the passengers as much as to say, "Bear with me. I can't help it." The car was going by the baseball grounds when the tall man sneezed again. A moment later the bell sounded once very violently. The motorman put the brake on hard, and the man jumped off the back platform. He ran back several paces, and stooping, closely scanned the surface of the street. One or two passengers called out: "What's the matter? lose anything?" There was no reply, but the next moment he picked up something from the ground and started back to the car. On the way he drew out his handkerchief and wiped off the article he had picked up. Then he passed his right hand over his mouth and with his left hand replaced his handkerchief in his pocket. Reaching the platform, the bell was pulled to go ahead, and turning to the passengers, he said: "One of 'em's broke, but I was lucky to find 'em at all." He smiled in an embarrassed way, and the passengers noticed that one of his handsome upper teeth was missing.

The difficulty about that new desk for Auditor Ferguson Haines, of Gardiner, was solved by Street Commissioner Hooper Monday morning. All day Saturday the desk rested in the corridor outside the door of the city clerk's office, while various members of the city government formed groups about it at intervals and discussed ways and means of getting it into the clerk's office, some of them offering emphatic remarks on the stupidity of the city building committee in not making the door big enough to let a desk in, and others intimating that it was folly to buy a desk that was too large for an office door. The difficulty was that the door of the inner office of the city clerk is only about two and a half feet wide, while the desk is at least three feet across the narrowest way. The desk remained in the corridor until Monday morning, awaiting the arrival of a carpenter either to take down part of the partition in the clerk's office or hoist the desk over the top of it. But the trouble was settled by Street Commissioner Hooper who looked the desk over and suggested that it might be easier to take the top of it off, rather than tear down the side of the office. The street commissioner's inspiration was acted on, and after removing a few screws, the desk was taken apart and set up again in the desired place. Street Commissioner Hooper looked on in a superior while the job was being done and took advantage of the opportunity to remark: "Still they talk about cutting down my salary."

END OF THE UNIVERSE.

How It Will Come to Pass According to the Norseland Myth.

One of the most striking of the Norseland myths is that in which is pictured the end of the universe, when all the gods of Asgard and Niflheim, and the inhabitants of Jotunheim and Midgard, together with their habitations, would be destroyed. That this catastrophe would come to all the visible creation they firmly believed, for their untaught minds could not conceive of immortality.

And this is how they pictured the fearful time: Three winters would come upon the earth, one after another, without the tempering influence of a single summer. Snow would fall from every quarter of the heavens; wild storms would sweep over the earth with tempestuous winds that nothing could withstand, and the sun would lose its heat.

Three other winters would succeed the first three, during which red visaged war would stalk over the universe, leaving blood and death in his ruthless track. Then the earth would begin to tremble in uncontrollable fear; the sea would rush from its bed; the heavens would be rent, and the eagles of the air would feast upon the still quivering flesh of multitudes of men slain without warning.

Fenris, the wolf monster, would throw off his bonds; the Midgard serpent, whose gigantic form encircled the world, would rise from its lair, and Loki, the evil genius of the universe, would desert the gods and go back among their enemies. Surtur would lead his followers to the Bifrost bridge, devouring flames before and behind them, and, having destroyed it in their passage, they would join Loki and the frost giants on the battlefield of Vigrid, where Fenris, the Midgard serpent and the hosts of Hela had already assembled.

Meanwhile, Heimdall, the watchman of Asgard, the abode of the gods, would sound the alarm with the Giallar horn, summoning the celestial cohorts to the field. Odin, clad in all the splendor of his supreme office, would lead forth the gods in martial array. Fenris, pressing forward, would throw himself upon Odin with a fierceness that the deity could not withstand, and the All Father would fall, pierced with a thousand wounds from the monster's fangs.

Then Vidar, the son of Odin, would fall like a thunderbolt upon the blood reeking wolf and avenge his celestial father's death. Thor, the all powerful, would slay, with his great hammer, the Midgard serpent, but even as the monster gave up its life its venomous breath would wreak vengeance upon the slayer, and Thor would sink down, suffocated to death.

Meanwhile Loki and Heimdall have been seeking each other and having met, they would fight with the fury of demons until both were slain. Thus, all over the bloody field, gods and giants, good spirits and evil, would meet and slay each other, and when the dreadful carnage was ended Surtur would send his fiery flames abroad, and the universe would be burned.

The sun would lose its light, the earth would disappear, the stars would fall from heaven, and time would be no more.—Philadelphia Times.

The Richest American.

Who is reputed to be the wealthiest person in the United States? Some two or three years ago a New York correspondent of a leading western paper devoted a good deal of space in setting forth the wealth attained by the men who had accumulated $20,000,000 or more. At that time the list contained nine names and stood in the following order: William Waldorf Astor, $150,000,000; Jay Gould, $100,000,000; John D. Rockefeller, $90,000,000; Cornelius Vanderbilt, $90,000,000; William K. Vanderbilt, $80,000,000; Henry M. Flagler, $60,000,000; John I. Blair, $50,000,000; Russell Sage, $50,000,000; Collis P. Huntington, $50,000,000.

The above estimates were said to be authentic, at the time they were published. The wealth of Mr. Astor consists of real estate in New York city; Gould's was in stocks and bonds; Rockefeller's is partly in Standard Oil stocks and partly in railroad securities; the Vanderbilts' is in railroad stocks and bonds; Mr. Flagler's is in Standard Oil stocks and government bonds; Mr. Blair's is in government and municipal securities; Mr. Sage's is in stocks and bonds on loans, and Mr. Huntington's is in railroad securities.

It is said that William Waldorf Astor will be a billionaire before he reaches the allotted age, and that he will follow the precedent set by his great-grandfather, John Jacob Astor, in transmitting his fortune to his eldest son. Should he become a billionaire his income at 6 per cent interest would be $60,000,000 a year; $5,000,000 a month; $1,171,154 a week; $166,849 a day; $6,952.05 an hour; $115.87 a minute and $1.93 a second.

As to the wealth of Andrew Carnegie and John Wanamaker, the iron and steel king is said to be worth $20,000,000, and the merchant prince $10,000,000.—Chicago Record.

A Rebuke.

"I beg your pardon," said the passenger in the long linen duster, leaning over the back of the seat in front of him, "but would you mind telling me how your nose got all knocked over to one side the way it is?"

"Not at all," cheerfully responded the passenger on the seat in front. "It was done one time when I was poking into other folks' business."—Chicago Tribune.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Mrs. Mary Ann Fish, who recently died at Freeport, organized with Miss Packard the Baptist women of Maine for their home mission work.

Some land that has been prepared for seed will not be planted this year. Every day's delay in the matter of sunshine adds to this sort of acreage.

Rev. W. L. Stone has resigned the pastorate of the church at South Penobscot to accept a call to Sterling, Mass. as the successor of Rev. Fred E. Heath.

The Aroostook Free Baptist quarterly meeting will be held at Fort Fairfield, commencing Friday, June 25, at 2 p.m. and continuing over the following Sunday.

The Maine Christian Conference will hold its June quarterly session with the church at Corinna, commencing Friday, June 18, 1897, at 10 o'clock a.m., and continuing over the following Sunday.

Rev. J. F. Cassavant, of Lewiston, will act as pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church in Ellsworth during the summer months, when Rev. James D. O'Brien will be in charge of the Catholic church at Bar Harbor.

C. W. Fletcher, the deputy insurance commissioner, and the actuary for the department, H. N. Maxfield, of Westbrook, are at Westfield, Mass., examining in connection with the insurance departments of the States of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the Bay State Insurance Co.

The report which has just been published in several of the Maine papers during the past week that the 10th Maine Regimental Association would hold its reunion during the present week is wrong. The reunion will be held at Windemere park on Wednesday, August 25. As a matter of fact that is always the date of the reunion, unless that day falls on Sunday, as it is the anniversary of the mustering in of the regiment at Augusta in 1863.

There was a special meeting of the Waterville board of education at the superintendent's office Saturday evening for the purpose of selecting a principal of the High school, Mr. McClellan, who was elected a short time ago, having declined to accept the position. The board made unanimous choice of Prof. Samuel K. Marsh, late vice president and acting principal of the Eastern Maine Seminary at Bucksport. Prof. Marsh was graduated from Colby in '81 in the same class with Prof. C. B. Stetson, Judge F. K. Shaw and Superintendent of Water Works E. M. Stacy, all of this city. The next year he was principal of the Monson High school and from there he went to Chamberlain Institute at Randolph, N. H., as instructor in mathematics, Greek and Latin and later he was principal of the High school at Spencer, N. Y., fitting students for Cornell and other colleges. He is possessed of a good general education but is particularly well equipped in mathematics and the sciences. He has a family of a wife and three children.

Bangor and the Northeast.

At the recent session of the International Commercial Congress in Philadelphia, Edward M. Blanding, secretary of Bangor Board of Trade and editor of the Industrial Journal, responded as follows to the sentiment "Bangor and the Northeast":

Mr. President and Gentlemen:

Widely different sections of the American continent have been heard from and allow me to speak briefly in behalf of the Northeast. It is a pleasure to bring greeting from the Board of Trade of Bangor, in the State of Maine, the sunrise State in the sisterhood of commonwealths. Bangor is the most easterly city of size within the limits of the United States and is the metropolis of the matchless empire of the Northeast, already making notable advancement and destined to make far greater progress in that era of prosperity sure to follow through the dual instrumentality of President McKinley's administration and the Philadelphia Commercial Museum.

And on this occasion I can voice not only the good will and hearty best wishes of the 325 business men comprising the Bangor Board of Trade, but can also speak for the Maine State Board of Trade, one of the pioneer State Board of Trade organizations and which is made up of delegates of local boards, having a combined membership of several thousand. It would be a source of great pleasure if our friends from the Latin American Republics, who have added so much to the prestige and enjoyment of this occasion by their presence, could extend their forthcoming excursion as far east as the city of my home, but realizing that plans already made cannot be changed we submit as gracefully as we can to the inevitable, confident in the hope that ere another year has rolled around they will come again and this time be able to visit Maine and the city of Bangor.

Maine, although far removed from the great business centers, has not been an altogether uninfluential factor in the promotion of commercial interests, the sails of her vessels having kissed the breezes of every sea, while there is not a port on the globe where some craft from the shipyards of Maine has not carried the proud colors of the stars and stripes; and now that wooden shipbuilding is in the decline the steel shipbuilding plants at Bath, fully equipped and successfully engaged in the building of vessels of steel, are ready to co-operate with the great works visited by us in this immediate vicinity yesterday and with others along the Atlantic seaboard to the end that America may regain her oldtime supremacy on the highway of the seas.

Maine has reason to take very particular interest in this International congress of South, Central and North America, for, as touched upon so eloquently by the nation's chief executive at the great banquet Wednesday evening, this movement is but in part the outgrowth of the zealous championship of a closer relationship of the countries comprising the Western hemisphere not many years back by a distinguished citizen of my own State, who was also a son of Pennsylvania, the lamented James G. Blaine. And although the matchless Blaine is gone Maine has other representatives in both branches of the nation's legislature, who can be depended upon to actively and efficiently cooperate in whatever will promote the commerce, trade and industry of a united America.

And in closing, we not only appreciate the warmth and boundlessness of Philadelphia hospitality, but we furthermore realize that the business men of the country are under lasting obligation to the able, enterprising and public spirited gentlemen who have established here an institution of such colossal proportions and far-reaching possibilities. God speed the Philadelphia Commercial Museum.

Stockton Springs News.

Our correspondent writes: Mr. and Mrs. George Demuth, who have been living in New York for a year or more, came Wednesday to visit Mrs. Demuth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Pendleton.

Mrs. Ralph Morse, Mrs. Rufus Mudgett, Miss Mary Hichborn and Miss Lizzie Pollard attended the Universalist convention in Rockland the past week. They report a very enjoyable meeting and that they were most royally entertained.

Mrs. Vessie Blanchard and children returned to Camden Friday after a visit of a few weeks in town.

Miss Mable Simmons is home for her summer vacation. She is one of the teachers at the Castine Normal school.

Dr. and Mrs. I. P. Park left Monday for Revere, Mass., after a two weeks' visit with Capt. and Mrs. Charles Park.

Mr. Dow, of Dennis, Mass., is spending a few weeks very pleasantly at the home of Mr. Levi Merrithew, at Pleasant Point.

A very nice monument has been placed in our cemetery recently to the memory of Capt. and Mrs. Amos Freeman, who were lost at sea about two years ago in the barkentine Carrie Heckle. They were bound from Philadelphia to Martinique. Mrs. Freeman was formerly Miss Mabel Lanpher.

Misses Lillie and Flora Moulton returned home Tuesday after spending the winter and spring in Boston. They have opened their house on Main street and will remain during the summer.

Mrs. Clara Shute left by boat Friday for Boston. She will visit her sister, Mrs. Greenwood, before returning home.

Mrs. S. J. Stevens left here Friday after a short visit at the home of her son, Dr. G. A. Stevens.

Mrs. Cordelia Call, of Gardiner, is in town calling upon friends.

Josiah and Pierce Lancaster went to Bangor Monday, the 7th, where they expect to be employed during the summer.

Owing to so much rainy weather but few of the farmers in this vicinity have finished their planting.

Meeting of Botanical Society.

The third annual meeting of the Josselyn Botanical Society of Maine will be held at Foxcroft Academy, Foxcroft, July 6 to 9. The meetings will be entirely public. A programme is made as follows, subject to changes, which may be incidental to the weather and unforeseen causes:

Tuesday, July 6, 9.30 a. m., opening meetings, preliminary business, reports of secretary, treasurer and committee; 10.30 a. m., "Our Society; Its Aims and Hopes," the president, Prof. A. L. Lane, Coburn Classical Institute, Waterville; discussion; 11.30 a. m., "The Story of Our Summer Club, an Experiment," Miss Mae A. Clark, Ellsworth; discussion; 2.30 p. m., "An Introduction to the Lichens," Albert R. Sweetser, botanical museum, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; discussion; 3.30 p. m., "The Trees of Maine," Mrs. Mary E. Taylor, Portland; discussion.

Wednesday, if pleasant, will be devoted to excursions in the vicinity of Foxcroft. If stormy, the programme assigned for Thursday will be carried out.

Thursday, 9.30 a. m., discussion of points suggested by the field excursion; 10.30 a. m., "The Algae of Maine Compared with Those of Other Regions," Frank S. Collins, Malden, Mass.; discussion; 11.30 a. m., "The Floras of South Africa and New England Contrasted," Miss Mary F. Farnham, South Bridgton; discussion; 2.30 p. m., "How to Look for Fungi," A. B. Seymour, cryptogamic herbarium, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; discussion; 3.30 p. m., "Some Jesuit and Other European Influences Upon Our Northeastern Flora," Merritt L. Fernald, Gray herbarium, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; discussion; 4.30 p. m., election of officers and other business.

Friday, July 9, excursion to Moosehead Lake and Mt. Kineo.

Resolutions on the Death of Col. A. R. Walker.

Whereas in the fullness of years and the loving friendship of all that knew him our brother, Amasa R. Walker, one of the founders of Eastern Star Grange, No. 1, of Hampden, has been called to that higher grange above, therefore

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Walker a life has ended here that was useful and honorable in every walk of life. That as one of the pioneers of the Grange movement in this State our brother acted a most important part in the organization of all the first granges in this and adjoining counties. His it was to help drive the first ploughshare through ignorance and superstition in the farming community of Maine. Although advanced in years and with impaired health, together with sickness and the loss of most of his family by death, prevented Brother Walker from attending the Grange for sometime before his death, yet we are assured that the Grange held a warm place in his heart, as he expressed his feelings to a brother a few weeks before his death the abiding faith he had in the Grange and its future, therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Walker our town and communities has lost a good citizen, neighbor and friend, the church a valued member and his family a loved and devoted husband and father. We tender our sympathy to the family of our brother with a copy of these resolutions and that the same shall be spread upon our records and a copy be sent to the Bangor papers for publication, also that our charter be draped in mourning for 30 days.

STATE OF MAINE.

Penobscot ss. Court of Insolvency.

In the case of SANFORD P. JUDKINS of Newport, in said County, Insolvent Debtor.

Respectfully represents Matthew Laughlin, of Bangor, in said County, that he is Assignee of the estate of said Insolvent Debtor, that he has filed, in said Court of Insolvency, his first account and offered the same for allowance; that there is in his hands an amount of money, as will appear by said account, for distribution among the creditors of said debtor and that a dividend will be desired upon the approval of the same by the Court.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that a time and place may be appointed when and where he may declare such dividend, and that your Honor, upon hearing, may approve and allow the same and order it to be entered of record.

Dated this twenty sixth day of May, A. D. 1897.

MATTHEW LAUGHLIN,
Assignee of said Sanford P. Judkins.

STATE OF MAINE.

Penobscot ss. At a Court of Insolvency holden at Bangor, within and for said County, on the twenty-eighth day of May, A. D. 1897.

Upon the foregoing petition, Ordered, that notice of a hearing to be had thereon at a Court of Insolvency to be held at the Probate Court Room in Bangor, in and for said County, on the twenty-fourth day of June, A. D. 1897, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be given to all persons interested, by the Register of said Court causing an attested copy of said petition and of this order thereon to be published two weeks successively in the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier and in the Bangor Daily Commercial, newspapers published in said Bangor, the last publication to be one day at least before said 24th June, A. D. 1897, that all persons interested may there and then attend and be heard if they shall see cause.

Harper's Magazine

IN 1897.

Fiction: The Martian, the new novel by Du Maurier, the eagerly expected successor to "Trilby," begun in October Number, 1896, with illustrations from the author's drawings. A new novel by Frank R. Stockton—developing a Twentieth Century Renaissance—full of humorous situations and characteristically illustrated. A Pair of Patient Lovers, by William Dean Howells. Other striking novelettes by American authors. Short stories by Mark Twain, Thomas Nelson Page, Richard Harding Davis, Owen Wister, John Kendrick Bangs, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Octave Thanet, Mary E. Wilkins, and other popular writers.

Science: Story of the Progress of Science during the Nineteenth Century, a series of papers by Dr. Henry Smith Williams, supplemented by contributions on special subjects by expert scientists. Articles on the relations of curious psychological manifestations to physiology by Dr. Andrew Wilson.

American Features: The Mexico of To-Day a series by Charles F. Lummis, splendidly illustrated—the result of a recent visit to Mexico undertaken for Harper's Magazine. Mexico is pre-eminently a silver-producing country, and its monetary operations rest entirely on a silver basis. Owing to the keen discussion of certain economic problems in connection with issues of urgent importance in American politics, these papers will command general attention. American Historical Papers by Woodrow Wilson, John Bach MacMaster, and James Barnes. The true story of Sheridan's Ride, by Gen. G. A. Forsyth. Continuation of Howell's Personal Reminiscences of eminent literary Americans.

Africa and the East: White Man's Africa, a fully illustrated series of papers by Poultney Bigelow, the result of personal observations during a recent trip to Africa, covering the whole field of European exploitation of that country. Illustrated articles by Stephen Bonsal on the transformations going on in Eastern Siberia, recently visited by the author. Hungarian sketches, written and drawn by F. Hopkinson Smith. The full story of the recent Coronation of the Czar, by Richard Harding Davis, illustrated by R. Caton Woodville, who was commissioned by Queen Victoria to paint a picture of the ceremony.

A CLIPPING

For Those Who Talk to the Public.

The following comments on advertising made by the advertisement writer for the Postum Cereal Co., Lim., of Battle Creek, Mich., may interest some who have been attracted by the rather unique article from his pen:

"Make up the stories? Why—yes, to be sure they are dressed and trimmed some, but they are all founded upon fact.

"That is, for instance, a mail carrier, clerk, lawyer, or what not with whom I may be talking, tells me his experience with 'Postum.'"

His story, possibly, is long enough for two columns of solid matter if reported verbatim.

I take the main facts and boil down the talk until we can afford to run it as a pleasant bit of shop talk with our friends and customers (the public) and not bankrupt us. I always stick to the facts, as I consider that when a man advertises he simply talks to customers, and if he lies in his advertisements he will lie in the face to face chats.

Tell the truth; it is more fascinating than all the romances one can spin up.

When you write an advertisement try and look upon yourself as conversing with, or explaining to, some one who wants to know about the article you have to sell. They are interested, and they want to know how near your goods will fit their needs.

Tell them as plainly as possible without exaggeration or subterfuge just what you have, and leave them to judge whether they want it or not. Don't tell them to "buy this" or "eat that."

The public know about what they want to do, and the duty of the "ad" writers is to explain facts in an easily understood way.

First be sure you have an article of true merit, then tell the people about it. Tell them the truth and you add a goodly percentage of dignity and character to your business and to the product you are furnishing.

Why grocers sometimes work in cheap imitations of Postum Cereal coffee if the customer will stand it.

The following is the ordinance of the city relating to riding upon the sidewalks:

"No person shall ride a bicycle while passing in, through, along or across any highway, street, way, lane, common, square or alley, in the city, at an immoderate rate; nor at all on any walks in said city specially designated as excluded from such use by the mayor from time to time, and not on those sidewalks not excluded in a negligent or careless manner, or so as to cause injury or unreasonable inconvenience to pedestrians."

Frequent complaints are made of persons who insist on abusing the privileges granted to bicyclers by my order to the chief of police May 31st last.

Now for the protection of the public against any such persons, and that the privilege may be continued, I request all persons, and especially riders of bicycles, to report the names of all persons to the police who are known to violate any of the aforesaid privileges, or of the above ordinance.

At the request of the bicyclists the sidewalk on the north side of Garland street is hereby excluded from use by persons riding bicycles.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The police made a seizure of liquor yesterday at Patrick Cavanaugh's boarding house on the Hampden road near the fair grounds.

Many Bangor Unitarians left on the noon train and the Boston boat on Tuesday for Belfast to attend the State Unitarian conference.

James McDougall was before the Municipal Court yesterday on the charge of defrauding a boarding house keeper, Angus McDonald, and was continued for sentence.

Mr. Thomas A. Coolidge and party, of Boston, who have been at Moosehead lake for several days on a fishing trip, passed through the city Tuesday night on their way home.

Kineo Echo: Mr. W. P. Dickey, of Bangor, who has been making a brief stay at Kineo, had remarkable luck with the line, and the nice box of fish he took home with him must have gladdened the hearts and tickled the palates of his friends.

The A. C. F. society connected with the Essex Street Baptist church will have its fourth annual moonlight excursion on the evening of July 12. The steamer Sedgwick has been chartered for the trip and an excursion will be made down river.

The Bangor & Aroostook railroad has received a number of culvert pipes ranging in size from 18 inches to five feet in diameter. They are made of steel and will be used on the Katahdin Iron Works branch and on the main line above Brownville.

There has been some talk between the B. O. & O. and Bangor electric railway companies regarding a lease, as proposed by the B. O. & O. company, of the Bangor line, but we are informed that no definite proposition has been made and that it is not probable that the lease will be made.

The Derthick Club Festival chorus will hold their next rehearsal Friday, June 18th, in Memorial Parlors at 7.30 p. m. This will be the last opportunity for new members to join and hereafter all members will be required to show their tickets at the door. Admission to the public will be ten cents.

On Tuesday morning Pearl & Dennett, auctioneers, sold for the city of Bangor the schoolhouse on Salem court, near State street, to W. N. Sawyer, for $15. It was thought best by the city committee to withdraw from sale at present the State street hose house as the city will have to use it several months more.

The auction sales of Oriental rugs at Davenport's store yesterday was fairly well attended but the bidding was slow and the rugs were sold at half their real value, Mr. Keuleyan says. The sale, however, will continue through today and tomorrow, when it will finally close, as Mr. Keuleyan sails for Europe soon.

At St. Mary's Catholic church on Tuesday morning at 9.30 Miss Annie Louise Rogan and Mr. Joseph S. Crowe were married by Rev. Father T. J. Nelligan in the presence of many relatives and friends. The bridesmaid was Miss Nellie Rogan, a sister of the bride, and a brother of the groom, Mr. Richard Crowe, acted as groomsman.

Hawes, delivered in this order: "Noticeable Characteristics," Rev. Smith Baker, D. D., Maverick church, East Boston; read by Rev. C. H. Credeford, of Winthrop; address by his son, Rev. Charles T. Hawes, of Bangor; a sketch of his life and work by his son, Rev. Edward Hawes, D. D., of Burlington, Vt.

The big new planer for the Hinckley & Egery Iron Co. has been placed inside the works and will soon be on its foundation. The planer is a 9x49-inch machine and weighs 20 tons. This planer is the heaviest piece of machinery ever put into a machine shop in this section of the country. It was built in Fitchburg, Mass., and thoroughly tested by the builders before being shipped to this city. It is the last machine to be delivered of a $10,000 order for new tools placed by the Hinckley & Egery Iron Co. General Manager Penney says that all who are interested in heavy machinery and wish to see any of these new machines in operation are invited to visit the works at any time.

Mr. Charles G. Atkins, assistant United States commissioner of fish and fisheries, superintendent of the government hatchery at Craig's brook, Orland, was in the city Tuesday to confer with Mr. O. B. Whitten, State commissioner of sea and shore fisheries, concerning the work to be done this year in the taking of salmon for breeding purposes. This branch of fish culture, so far as the State's part of the work is concerned, is now in Mr. Whitten's hands, and the State and general government carry on the work jointly under direction of the two commissioners. In 1896 the work of taking salmon on the Penobscot was not commenced until August as the traps at the dams were not completed in season for the work to begin before that time. This year, as more is to be done than last year, the commissioners intend to commence taking the fish early in July. At the Craig's brook hatchery more is being done this year than ever before. This spring the government has hatched 3,350,000 fry, nearly all of which are salmon, and all but 350,000 have already been distributed to the various lakes, ponds and streams entitled to them.

Knights Templar Visit.

Extensive preparations are being made for the visit of Beauseant Commandery, K. T., of Malden, Mass., to Bangor and Moosehead Lake next week when the visitors, accompanied by their ladies will be the guests of St. John's Commandery, K. T., of this city. Last evening Lieut. Royden, U. S. A., of the University of Maine, came to Bangor to drill the members of St. John's Commandery in preparation for the event. The visitors will arrive in Bangor on the noon of Wednesday, June 23, on the steamer Penobscot. There will be nearly 200 in the party and they will be met at the wharf of the Boston & Bangor Steamship company by the members of St. John's Commandery.

After dinner the two commanderies will parade the principal streets. The Malden commandery will be accompanied by a band and Harlow's Bangor Band will also be in the parade. On Wednesday evening there will be a reception for the guests at the asylum of St. John's commandery on Main street.

On Thursday morning the party will leave Bangor in a special train at 8.30 o'clock for Moosehead lake and Kineo. The Bangor Sir Knights will be accompanied by their ladies. The special train will run through to Greenville Junction without stopping and the party will arrive at the foot of the lake about 10 o'clock.

The trip to Kineo will be made in special steamers which will be at the disposal of the party during its stay there. Kineo will be reached in time for dinner and the afternoon will be devoted to rest and sight-seeing around the hotel. In the evening there will be a promenade concert and hop.

On Friday the party will make trips to various points on the lake including Northeast Carry and the famous Echo mountain will be visited. Friday evening will be devoted to dancing and music. On Saturday morning the party will leave at 7.30 o'clock for Bangor, arriving here about 10 o'clock.

Lunch will be served at the asylum of St. John's Commandery and dinner will be provided for the visitors at the Bangor House. The party will leave for home on the afternoon train Saturday.

At the time of the triennial conclave of the Knights Templar in Boston in 1895 the members of St. John's Commandery were the guests of Beauseant Commandery during their stay in that city and the Bangor Knights will endeavor to return the many kindnesses and hospitality shown upon that occasion.

Kineo Echo: Mr. Julius Waterman, the celebrated ready made clothier of Bangor, has, with his daughter, made Kineo a visit, much to the pleasure of those whose privilege it was to meet them. They have been very successful in fishing and Miss Waterman was high line of the party.

Schedule Arranged.

Manager Stephen E. Young, of the Bowdoin College football association, has completed his schedule for the season of 1897. Of the nine games scheduled, four will be played at Brunswick. Thus far the management has been unable to come to satisfactory terms with regard to a game with the University of Maine.

For the first time in several years, the Bowdoin eleven will play the Harvard 'varsity on October 6th. Only a few of last year's eleven will graduate this year, and several players, prominent in interscholastic football, will enter in the fall. The schedule for next season is as follows:

- Oct. 2—Bowdoin vs. Bates, at Brunswick.
- Oct. 6—Bowdoin vs. Harvard, at Cambridge.
- Oct. 9—Open.
- Oct. 13—Bowdoin vs. Exeter, at Exeter.
- Oct. 16—Bowdoin vs. Tufts, at Brunswick.
- Oct. 23—Bowdoin vs. Dartmouth, at Hanover.
- Oct. 30—Bowdoin vs. Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at Brunswick.
- Nov. 3—Bowdoin vs. Colby, at Waterville.
- Nov. 6—Bowdoin vs. Tufts, at College Hill.
- Nov. 10—Open.
- Nov. 13—Bowdoin vs. Colby, at Brunswick.

A RATTLING GOOD GAME.

Bangor Defeats the Rocklands in A Ten-Inning Contest.

A Heart-Breaking Struggle on the Diamond—Nick Wise Won the Game.

Well, you should have been there yesterday—at Maplewood Park—when Bangor's hustlers defeated the Rocklands in a 10 inning contest, 4 to 3. It was the finest game of the season and one of the best seen here for years. It was one of those old heart-breaking games that demoralize one into a limp, yet happy specimen of humanity, after the joyful ending, glad you are living and want to go down again sort of a feeling.

It was a nice, pleasant afternoon, except for the threatened shower, and the home team went to work with a do-or-die, get-out-of-the-soup air of determination that brought forth good results. Count Bertricolo Cronin did the twirling for us and did it mighty well. Gee whiz! what speed he had, especially in the 10th, when he was loaded for bear. He's all right, that chap, and is improving every day. The visitors secured only 9 hits off him and our outfield had only two put outs, so some idea can be gained of Cronin's effective work. Viau also pitched a good game; that is evident from the results.

Bangor scored twice in the 2d on a base on balls for Birmingham, sacrifice by Mackey, two bagger by Meagher and Trainor's single. Birmingham scored in the 6th on a wild throw by Fitzpatrick, wild pitch and Meagher's single. Rockland tied the score in the 8th and neither side scored in the ninth. The grand 10th began amid great excitement. It looked dubious for the Bangors but joy was ahead. Cronin went out on a foul fly to Mahoney, thoroughly disgusted. Flack put up a fly to Sheehan—two out. McKenzie raised hopes by a single and then Nick Wise, who is getting into the game of his life this season apparently, came to bat. 'Twas his intention to knock the ball out to Webster avenue but he concluded to compromise on the track beyond right center.

Of course McKenzie scored and Nick was barely put out at the plate. But for remarkably quick fielding and good luck in throwing, it would have been a homer. There was great yelling for a long time and Wise owned the town right then and there.

The Rocklands came in. Murphy hit to Birmingham and was out, Cronin covering the bag. Chestnut was out, Meagher to Birmingham. Coburn got a single. That irritated the usually placid Cronin and he struck out Mahoney. The world was ours and sorrow was Rockland's. The crowd came away happy. The score:

Notes.

This afternoon Rockland plays here again. Now let us give you a pointer: Turn out to the games. You are missing lots of fun and not helping the sport by staying away. Our team is improving every day and fine games are expected. Turn out, ye cracks, turn out.

Cronin covers first well.

Kearns made a grand foul fly catch in the 5th.

Fitzpatrick stopped a hot one from Birmingham's bat in good style.

Quick work by Kearns, Meagher and Trainor prevented Coburn from reaching third in his long hit. He was nailed there.

A little fire in the canvas padding on the front of the grand stand at the beginning of the game furnished a diversion. It wasn't a circumstance to the hot stuff following, though.

Kearns, of the Bangors, requests us to state that the report that he is dissatisfied with his treatment in Bangor is untrue. He says that he has been handsomely treated in every way.

Cronin must have made the season's record for fielding for a pitcher yesterday.

Bass, of this city, will pitch for Rockland today.

THE FESTIVAL.

Plans for the Building Examined—$1500 More Must Be Subscribed Within a Week to Insure Success.

The finance committee of the Maine Festival met last evening at the Common Council room, City Hall, and conferred upon the various matters pertaining to the proposed musical event. In order to insure the success of the festival $1500 more must be subscribed by next Tuesday, when the committee will hold another meeting.

Architects Hodgkins & Packard have completed plans for a festival building and they were submitted to the committee last evening. It will have two main entrances on the front. The building will be 85 feet across the front.

Inside there will be on each side, at the left and right of the doors, ticket windows, opening from an office 14 by 27 feet on the floor. Entrance will be had first to a small vestibule, from which double swinging doors will lead to the main floor of the hall. The main floor will be 84 feet across, from wall to wall, and 125 feet from rear to the orchestra rail. There will be room for 70 rows of seats, with side aisles and a broad aisle in the middle.

The orchestra will be stationed in front of the seating space, in an enclosure 11 by 84 feet, on the floor. On either side of this enclosure will be stairways to the stage and to the basement. The stage will measure 50 by 84 feet, and will be so high that all seats in the house have a view of it. The entire building will be 200 feet in length, by 85 feet in width. From the floor to the ridge-pole will be 43 feet, and the height of the side walls will be 20 feet.

On either side of the main floor will be exits for a fire escape and general use. The galleries will run across the rear of the hall and along the sides. The gallery floor will be steep, so that every seat will have a considerable elevation. In the basement there will be dressing rooms. The basement will contain a big waiting room for the orchestra 84 feet long and a dozen in width, two water closets and five dressing rooms, for ladies and gentlemen.

NEW BICYCLE PATH.

Plans for Club and Transformation of Old Veazie R. R. Bed.

Col. I. K. Stetson has acquired full rights to the old Veazie railroad bed and will continue the work begun there in transforming it into a bicycle path. A good deal has already been done and much more will be.

A club is being formed to control it and where the members and their friends can enjoy fine wheeling. The path will be completed in a short time for a distance of 7 miles.

The plans contemplate the formation of a country club if everything turns out well, with a club house on the shore of Pushaw lake, which is only a mile and a half from the bicycle path.

Then, too, there is talk of tennis grounds for summer and a skating rink for winter, with other features to be developed.

Several hundred dollars have been already subscribed and more will be forthcoming.

A meeting of subscribers will be held today at 2.30 p. m. at Milford street at the entrance to the path to discuss matters.

AMUSEMENTS.

Wormwood's Monkey Theatre.

Wormwood's Monkey Theatre at the Opera House was fairly well attended yesterday afternoon and last evening and furnished much amusement to all. It is an entertainment which is greatly enjoyed by everybody, as all have agreed who have attended. The great intelligence of monkeys and dogs under excellent training is finely shown in this entertainment.

It is not an ordinary performance, but one of special attractions and variety, and will be appreciated by every person. Besides the monkeys and dogs the animated pictures and comedy and musical numbers are interspersed. Daily matinees will be given at 2.30 during the week. The evening performances begin at 8.

MASON-GRANT.

A June Wedding On Tuesday Noon at Unity.

John Rogers Mason, Esq., of this city, and Miss Meta Victoria Grant were united in marriage on Tuesday noon at the home of the bride's parents in Unity, in the presence of a party of relatives and intimate friends, among whom were the sister of the bride, who now resides in Bangor, and Dr. William C. Mason, brother of the groom, his wife and son, of this city.

The rooms were very tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a most attractive appearance. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. S. Williams, of Clinton. The bride was attired in a handsome traveling gown. The bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Clara Grant, and the groom's young nephew, William Mason, attended him.

After the ceremony the bridal couple received the congratulations of the assembled company and a delicious dinner was then served. Mr. and Mrs. Mason took the afternoon train for a wedding tour to Boston and other places, and upon their return will reside at his home on Hammond street, at the corner of Fifth street.

The bride is a highly regarded and charming young lady who has made many friends during her residence in Bangor. Mr. Mason is an attorney at law of much ability and is well known as such throughout the State.

The wedding presents were very numerous and handsome and included an elegant silver service from Tarratine Club members and a fine silver set from other friends of the groom.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

Workman Fell Ten Stories at New Hotel, La Touraine, in Boston on Tuesday.

Boston, June 15. S. Hall, a workman employed at the new Hotel, La Touraine, fell from the tenth floor to the basement this afternoon and was instantly killed. He was 35 years old and lived in Charlestown. He left a wife and two children.

BARNEY BARNATO'S DAUGHTER.

Cleveland Woman Claims a Share Of the Property.

Cleveland, O., June 15. Mrs. Blackman, of this city, who claims to be the legitimate daughter of Barney Barnato, will at once take steps to acquire a share of his fortune.

Mrs. Blackman claims to be a daughter of Barnato by his first wife, whose maiden name was Anna Esther.

His Fourth Attempt at Suicide.

London, June 15. Today's papers publish columns of obituary reminiscence, anecdote and history as to the late Barney Barnato. It is said he thrice attempted to commit suicide before he left Capetown.

Barnato's Sister-in-Law Talks to Reporters.

New York, June 15. Miss Alice Holbrook, the sister-in-law of Barney Barnato, was much indisposed today, but she consented to speak to reporters, in order, as she put it, to clear up certain misconceptions. As to the circumstances of Barnato's death, she had no direct knowledge. The statement that she received a cablegram about it was an error. Five days ago, however, she received a letter from her sister, Mrs. Barnato, in which the latter said that her husband was quite melancholy, and much upset over business. He was very busy and much worried.

There was no hint, however, that his mental condition was serious. Miss Holbrook wished to deny many of the stories told about Barnato's early life. "He was not a London street waif," she said. "He came of a good English Jewish family, as we do. My sister was never a barmaid. Mr. Barnato was never a circus clown, and I did not teach him to spell. He was a fine, intelligent man—his success in business shows that. It is not true that I did not like him."

Miss Holbrook could not account for Barnato's suicide.

FIRE RECORD.

Slaughter Houses Burned.

Montreal, June 15. The sheep and hog slaughtering department of the Eastern abattoir was destroyed by fire tonight with attached buildings. A large quantity of dressed hogs and some live sheep were burned. The loss will reach $30,000.

Too Delicate for Soldiers.

West Point, June 15. Bertram Sanders and a youth from Arkansas, whose name could not be learned, returned to their respective homes to-day and declined to further take part in the examination for cadetships on the ground that they had been severely hazed.

They entered the examination with a class of 93 yesterday to undergo the examination for admission to the U. S. Military Academy. This morning they resigned their nominations and immediately left West Point. They alleged that Cadets Scott, Maglonia, and Nesbit had hazed them, that they were unwilling to submit to it and would no longer put themselves in the way of such experiences.

THE FASHIONS.

Very stylish over chine silk, shepherd's check taffeta, and light colored foulards look the airy redingotes made variously of organdie, grenadine, etamine, silk canvas and similar transparent fabrics. Some of these pretty garments are cut down in the neck, allowing the top of the bodice of the dress proper to show from the neck nearly to the shoulders. The edge of the low cut redingote is then finished with a fichu-like piece, or a deep collarette made of the goods forming the redingote, and edged with white or narrow lace or accordeon pleated frills also lace-edged. A very charming toilet for summer church wear is made of white chine silk sprigged with [illegible] mauve. The gored skirt has a small ruche at the hem. The bodice [illegible] the close sleeves finished with a small gracefully draped puff. Over this the redingote made of fine dotted Swiss muslin, a narrow band of handsome Swiss insertion heading the [illegible] half hem on the front. The redingote is open up the back breadth of the skirt portion, allowing some of the dainty silk folds of the skirt beneath to show. The waist part of the redingote is cut low around the neck and finished with a falling collarette of the dotted goods, edged with pleated ruffles bordered with narrow lace. Another redingote [illegible] around the entire garment, the [illegible] extending even up the open breadth of the back. For matrons this would be a dressy and becoming style, made of black grenadine or etamine, trimmed with rich black lace and [illegible] sole frills, and worn over black [illegible].

The modified sleeve grows prettier and more fascinating in style as it appears formed of all the sheer and dainty summer textiles and garnitures. Never were models more of "happy" [illegible] contour, or more appropriately [illegible] than now. The new shapes and varieties are legion. The foundation or [illegible] of most of the popular styles is a closely fitted shape encasing the arm like a glove, either flat and very close if the arm is plump, or wrinkled [illegible] length if over-slender. The best models are silk lined, and have an under [illegible] piece—that is, the sleeve is made with two seams. The decorations at the top vary constantly, as each modiste [illegible] her art at devising new effects [illegible] those she has studied. There are [illegible] like skirts and bodices—for every sort of fabric, for every age and size and for day and evening wear. For [illegible] a pretty style for evening [illegible] of transparent material, is the Victoria model, made first of fitted silk, [illegible] this the thin fabric is shirred into [illegible] inch puffs, each shirring [illegible] standing frill. This arrangement covers the entire length of the sleeve, [illegible] effect of rose color, mauve, [illegible] etc., through the transparent [illegible] above it is lovely. At the top, the [illegible] fabric is draped over a puff of the [illegible] silk, or there is merely a [illegible] drapery of the thin goods or [illegible] ruffles edged with lace. Many of the French evening sleeves, in [illegible] and white, are finished at the [illegible] also at the flaring wrists, with [illegible] frills of accordion-pleated tissue. [illegible] gowns are made with either [illegible] mutton-leg sleeve fitted from [illegible] the elbow, or a close coat sleeve [illegible] the top a small puff, slight drapery, [illegible] flat Russian cap covered with [illegible] or bordered with rows of gimp.

Maine Board of Agriculture.

Farmers' Institutes have been arranged in Penobscot and Washington counties as follows:

At Springfield, Tuesday, June 22; Charlotte, Wednesday, June 23; [illegible] Bluffs, Thursday, June 24; and [illegible] Friday and Saturday, June 25 and [illegible]. The speakers at these meetings will be Mr. E. E. Light, of Union, member of the board for Knox county; Mr. W. [illegible] Hunton, of Readfield, member of the board for Kennebec county, and the secretary. The subjects to be discussed will be dairying, farm crops, stock raising and the good roads question.

The two days' meeting at [illegible] be specially devoted to dairy [illegible]. There will be a separator and [illegible] milk tester on exhibition, and it is probable that butter will be churned during one or more of the meetings. [illegible] interest appears to center in these meetings and it is expected that the attendance will be larger than at any previous meetings held in this section of the State.

Institutes are partially arranged for Hancock county the week following.

B. WALKER McKEEN, Secretary.
